THE "OLD NORTHWEST"
GENEALOGICAL QUARTERLY.

JANUARY, 1899.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF GEN. CATHARINUS
PUTNAM BUCKINGHAM.

By Mrs. SARAH BUCKINGHAM SLOANE.

One of the figures which stands out most prominently in the early history of Ohio, is that of General Rufus Putnam; a man who took a foremost place among the men of his time—a time which produced many heroic figures—through sheer force of character, and the determination to never be beaten. He himself says in the old journal with its yellow pages, in which he recorded his life for the benefit of his children, "After I was nine years old, I went to school in all only three weeks;" and yet he ably filled the position of Washington's chief of engineers, and was as Washington expressly and repeatedly testified, the ablest engineer officer of the war, whether American or Frenchman.

Undaunted, resourceful, thorough and energetic, he held within himself a heritage of character and ability, which he handed down in full measure to his grandson who is the subject of this sketch, Catharinus Putnam, son of Ebenezer and Catherine (Putnam) Buckingham.

Catharinus Putnam Buckingham was born in Zanesville, Ohio, on the 14th of March, 1808, his mother, Catherine, the youngest daughter of General Rufus Putnam, dying in giving him birth. His early years were largely spent under his grandfather's roof. In 1825, he received the appointment of cadet in the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, being a member of the class of 1829, in which were graduated Robert E. Lee, Joseph E. Johnston, Ormsby Mitchell, and many others who fought as general officers during the war of the Rebellion. At the end of the first year, Cadets Mason, Lee and Buckingham were appointed to the positions of Assistant Professors of Mathematics, they having been but one year in the academy, and the latter being but eighteen years old.

At the end of the four years, Cadet Buckingham was graduated, and about a year afterward was appointed Assistant Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy, at the Military Academy, which position he held for one year, at the close of which he resigned from the army, having a preference for civil life.

His military training at West Point, however, developed in a naturally exact and mathematical mind, qualities which in after life made him one of the most efficient public servants of his state, and eminently fitted him to become that greatest force in public service, the man whose training has especially fitted him for his duties. In character and ability he bore a close resemblance to his grandfather, General Putnam. The same natural taste for engineering and mathematics; the same character of mind, broad enough to plan and execute ideas of the broadest scope, yet careful to omit no detail which should lead to ultimate success; the same energy, integrity and honor, and handed down as an inheritance, the same strong love for his native state, and devotion to her interests.

Of many positions of prominence held by General Buckingham, during his long and busy life, it is not possible to speak in detail in a sketch of this length. In his case it is most true that he never sought a place of trust, and he never betrayed one. For three years he held the chair of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, at Kenyon College, but it is upon his work during the war of the Rebellion, and especially in Ohio, that this article is intended to touch, as of more interest at the present time.

The outbreak of the war found the North in a most unprepared condition. Each heart was fired with patriotism, but to equip volunteer armies, and place them in the field in fighting order, requires many qualities aside from patriotism. In the spring of 1861, just after the news of the fall of Sumter, Governor Dennison sent for General Buckingham to report at Columbus, and appointed him Commissary General. He brought order out of the confusion which he found reigning in this department, reducing the cost of feeding the troops (some forty or fifty thousand men) from fifty cents a day to about fourteen cents, and of the ten regiments authorized to be raised for the service of the state, nine were promptly clothed and armed, and a little more than one month after the fall of Sumter, were pouring into West Virginia. It has been a matter of state pride, that Ohio's troops were among the earliest in the field, and the best equipped of all the troops sent to the front. In the words of a contemporary, "No doubt Ohio owes her high military prestige during the war of the Rebellion to the skill displayed by General Buckingham in organizing her forces for the front."

In June, General Buckingham was appointed Adjutant General of the State. The duties of the war adjutant were manifold, the recruiting officers were appointed nominally by the Governor, but really by him. Hundreds of them were scattered through the state, and all were to be looked after, instructed, their mistakes corrected, their companies received and organized into regiments, the camp (Chase) to be arranged and overseen—the training and drilling of the men to be looked after—the officers to be appointed to fill vacancies in the field, and a complete register to be kept of all the officers with their respective commands. The trained intelligence which the Adjutant General brought to this task overcame difficulty after difficulty, to build a lasting monument of efficiency for the State he loved so well.

Warm personal friendships spring up between men who share the duties and anxieties of times like these. The Governor and his Adjutant worked side by side, and the esteem which Governor Dennison inspired in him is shown in an old letter, not written for public eyes, in which he says, "No more honest or pure man ever held the office of Governor than Governor Dennison. Although a politician, he never descended to political trickery, and he went out of office poorer than he went in."

During the progress of the recruiting for the army, circumstances made it very desirable to have some special orders from the War Department at Washington. To effect this, General Buckingham was sent to Washington, and in this manner came often in contact with Secretary Stanton. His eminent fitness must have impressed the great War Secretary, for in 1862 General Buckingham was sent for by President Lincoln, and asked if he would accept a position at Washington. He was accordingly given the rank of Brigadier General of Volunteers and appointed a confidential aid to Secretary Stanton, in reality performing the duties of Assistant Secretary of War. From this time on he acted as Secretary Stanton's right hand. Not only did he do an enormous amount of work, chiefly relating to the recruiting service, and the thousand and one questions constantly arising all over the country, which had to be solved at the War Department; but there were entrusted to his charge many delicate and diplomatic duties, which required special intelligence and training to execute.

One great problem always confronting the Government, was the recruiting of the armies in such a way as neither to discourage the North, nor encourage the South, nor to create an unfavorable opinion among foreign nations. Hence it was necessary to resort to expedients to avoid, whenever possible, a proclamation for more troops. The duty of meeting the Western Governors to confer with, and explain to them the methods decided upon to accomplish this result was assigned to General Buckingham, who fulfilled his mission with marked success.

In one of the later editions of the Compte de Paris' "History of the Civil War in America," in a lengthy foot note, is given a most interesting account of the relieving of General McClellan from the command of the Army of the Potomac, and influencing General Burnside to assume that command, which duty was confided to General Buckingham. This foot note is a letter from him, called out by some errors in the Compte de Paris' version, and while the Compte and some of his friends seem to wish to throw some discredit upon the version given in the correction, no one to whom General Buckingham was known personally or by reputation, can doubt the accuracy of his statement.

When at Washington, he received and digested the daily reports from the different departments of the War Office, with authority to act in the name of Secretary Stanton, upon all matters; the only exceptions being those, in regard to which he himself was unwilling to take the sole responsibility.

The last military service which he was to render his country, was in the spring of 1863, when he was sent for by the Senate Military Committee to consult with them about a conscription law. General Buckingham reported a plan creating what was known as the "Provost Marshal" system. The committee approved of this plan, as well as of other suggestions about the conscription, and at length turning over all the papers and memoranda, directed him to draw up such a bill as he had advocated. This bill was reported to the Senate, and passed both houses with scarcely an alteration.

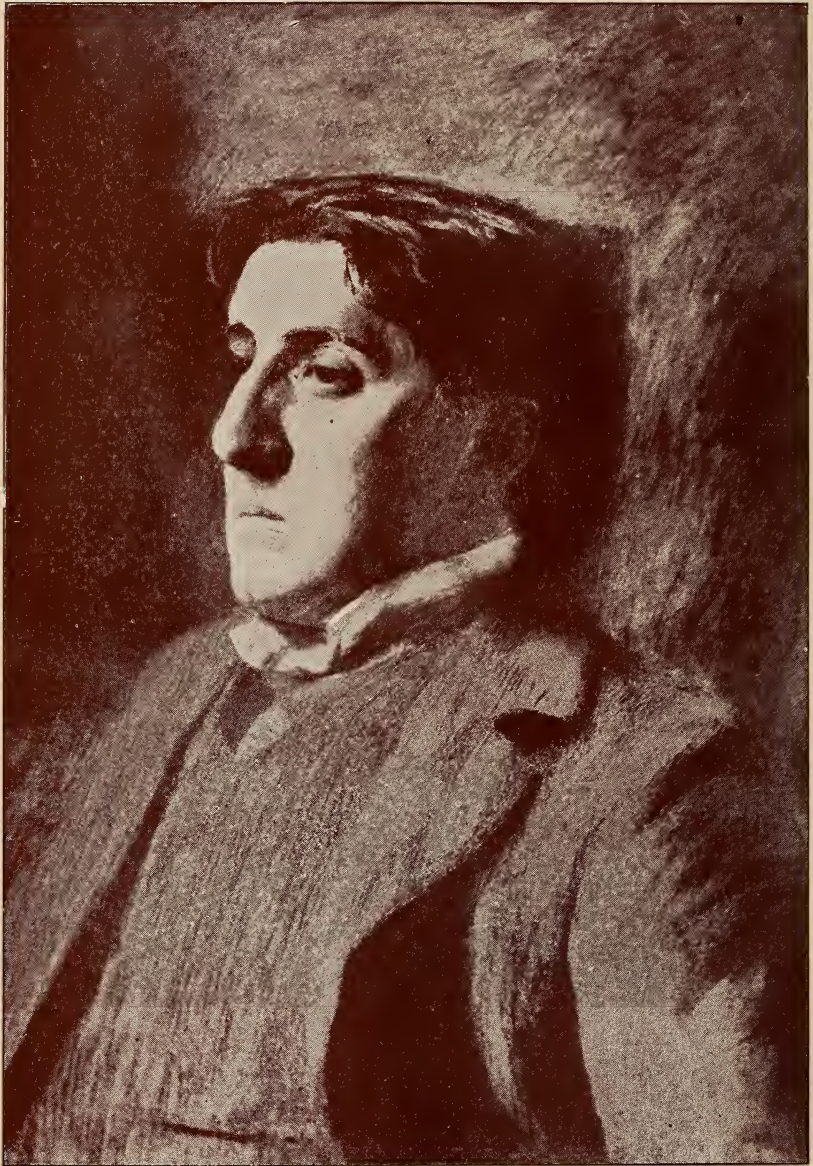

The Senate committee urged General Buckingham to take charge of carrying out this plan under the title of Provost Marshal General. At this time, however, affairs of a private character seemed to render it necessary for him to leave the army, and he accordingly resigned his position after a continuous service of almost three years.

With the passing of General Buckingham from public life, comes a fitting conclusion to this sketch. He lived for many years after the close of the war, most of his leisure time being spent in his favorite study of mathematics. In 1875, he published a work upon "The Differential and Integral Calculus," which gave him a wide reputation among mathematicians.

No community of which General Buckingham was a member, but felt the influence of a character which always made "for righteousness." The truth that "no man liveth to himself," was never truer than of him; for to those who knew him he stood as an embodiment of uprightness, and as an inspiration to all that is noble and of good report.

General Buckingham died August 30, 1888, at his residence in Chicago. He was married three times. July 5, 1830, he was married to Miss Mary Gird of Cedar Lake, New York. She died July 11, 1834. His second wife was Miss Mary Pank Turner, of England; born March 31, 1818; died August 24, 1844, at Mt. Vernon, Ohio. August 25, 1845, he was married to Miss Marion A. Hawkes, who was born October 15, 1820, at Peru, Massachusetts, and who still survives him.

In the olden days when, after a life of battle, a knight returned to his home, his shield upon which were inscribed his deeds of renown, was hung in the ancestral hall. After so noble a life as that of which we have written; after his long battle of life is ended, the white shield of truth, honor and uncompromising integrity, can be hung to his memory in the history of his State.

CO-OPERATIVE GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH.

By WILLIAM G. PENGELLY, F. S. A. (Scot.), of Columbus, Ohio.

Abstracts of wills, together with parish registers, are undoubtedly the most valuable records to the amateur genealogist in the compilation of family history.

As per note in THE QUARTERLY (Vol. I., pp. 145-6), abstracts of wills of the families named in the following list, made by Rev. Frederick Brown, M. A., F. S. A., from the originals in Somerset House, London, and Taunton, (Eng.), etc, are (by the generosity of H. W. Whayman, Esq., Hon. member of this Society), now available to members of The “Old Northwest” Genealogical Society and their friends.

All communications in reference thereto should be addressed to

SOME DELAWARE COUNTY, OHIO, PIONEERS.

By VIRGIL D. ALLEN, of Columbus, Ohio.

That part of the Columbus and Sunbury pike from the north line of Franklin county to the town of Galena, originally called Zore, has been known as Yankee Street since its first settlement. It is all within the present limits of Delaware county, and is some three or four miles in length. The following is an approximately correct list of the original settlers on Yankee Street. The writer has the names of the children of many of these persons, as well as other facts concerning them, which he will be pleased to give to other interested persons.

Marcus Curtiss, from Southington, Conn.; came about 1807, with wife Catherine and son Augustus.

Johnson Pelton, from Vermont—probably Chittenden county; married Polly Hall.

William Cox, an English sailor; married first, Mehetable Atherton,* daughter of James and Lydia (Washburn) Atherton, in Luzerne county, Pennsylvania; married second, Anne Atherton, a sister of his first wife.

William Hall, married Polly, daughter of Jeremiah and Rachel (Carter) Curtiss.

Rufus Carter, married Sally Curtiss. They removed to Pleasant Lake, Indiana.

Gilbert, William and Dea. Benjamin Carpenter, brothers, from Wyoming Valley, Luzerne county, Pennsylvania.

Scovill Carpenter (son of Dea. Benjamin), married first Polly Foot, half sister of Sylvester Hough; married second Letitia, daughter of Alexander Smith.

Diadatus Keeler, from Vermont; married first Orilla Hill; married second Elsy Fuller.

Jonathan Ritheford, married Bulah Hill, both of Vermont. (She was sister of Mrs. Keeler.)

John Curtiss and mother, Rachel. He married Sally, daughter of Rufus Carter.

Sylvester Hough and family, from Charlotte, Vermont; came in 1812; brought, also, his wife's mother, Joanna (Taylor) Williams. He returned to Charlotte in 1819 and brought his mother, then Sally Foot, his sister Hannah and half sister Polly Foot.

Dr. Eleazer Copeland, from Vermont, married Hannah Hough.

Samuel Landon, from Luzerne county, Penn., married Hannah Atherton.

David Smith, married (for his second wife) Ruth Atherton.

*Mehetable was the divorced wife of Sale Roberts, and had one son, John, who married Nancy Williams, daughter of Rev. John Williams, of Virginia (and an early pioneer to Ohio.)

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS FROM AN OLD GRAVE-YARD IN MANTUA, PORTAGE COUNTY, OHIO.

By Hon. HORACE LADD MOORE, of Lawrence, Kansas.

The following inscriptions are from the first graveyard set apart in Mantua, Portage county, Ohio. It is located a mile south of Mantua Center.

Attention is called to the inadequate inscriptions on the grave-stones of all these married women except the wives of William Pettit and Amzi Atwater. These two give the family name of the wife, and render it possible to trace their descent.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE REV. RICHARD PENGELLY, M. D.

Rev. Richard Pengelly, elected a resident member of this Society last year, was born in Tavistock, England, March 25, 1818, and died in Kalamazoo, Michigan, November 6, 1898. His parents were both followers of Rev. John Wesley.

His mother's health was delicate, and at six years of age he was left motherless to find a home with his father's parents in Plymouth. Here he remained only a short period, as he sought and found lucrative employment for himself, and in his eighteenth year embarked for America to seek an education at Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. He soon learned, however, that the Episcopal rulings of the school were not congenial to a person of his early Methodistic training, and he went to Norwalk, remaining for three years under the direction of Dr. Edward Thompson, Prof. Nelson and others. Here his convictions that he should preach the gospel became a dominant factor in his life. At Norwalk and Mt. Vernon he was associated with young men in the ministry, went with them to their appointments, participating in public services, and finding himself happy in such activities he willingly but timidly accepted a proffered license to exhort, July 4, 1840. His name was at once placed on the plan of the circuit which embraced eighteen appointments, two pastors, nine local preachers and fourteen exhorters. On February 12, 1842, he was licensed as a local preacher and recommended for admission into the North Ohio conference. He was appointed to a charge, but through the influence of the late Dr. E. H. Pilcher was transferred to Michigan and appointed as junior preacher on Oakland circuit, Rev. Salmon Steele being preacher in charge. On this circuit were twenty-eight preaching places and during the year eight protracted meetings were held, the spiritual fruit being abundant. He was made deacon by Bishop Hamline at Coldwater in 1844, and elder by Bishop Janes at Marshall in 1846. He married Miss Mary E. House, daughter of Rev. Elisha House, January 14, 1847, and together they celebrated, on January 14, 1898, their fifty-first wedding anniversary. Their eldest child died in infancy. The second, Lydia Helen, the wife of Dr. Chamberlain, resides in Chicago. The third, an adopted son, Addison H., resides in Kalamazoo.

In 1863, during an interval in his ministry, he graduated from Hahnemann medical college, Chicago, and entered the practice of medicine, devoting more or less attention to it, even while afterwards a clergyman, to the time of his death.

His ministerial appointments were as follows: 1842, Oakland; 1843, Detroit city mission; 1844, Livingston; 1845, St. Joseph; 1846, Paw Paw; 1847, Constantine; 1848, South Albion; 1849-50, Grass Lake; 1851, Northville; 1852, Schoolcraft; 1853, Niles; 1854, Buchanan; 1855, transferred to Rock River conference and stationed at Lee Center; 1856-7, transferred back to Michigan and appointed to Eaton Rapids; 1858-9, Grand Rapids; 1860-1, Paw Paw; 1863, after this he gave five years to the practice of medicine; 1869, re-entered conference and was stationed in Nashville; 1870-1, Mason; 1872-3, Saugatuck; 1874 was made supernumerary, and in 1895, superannuated. It was the pressure of medical practice that led him to relinquish the life of a pastor in 1874. Wherever he went he was importuned to prescribe for the sick, and his success in practice gave him reputation. In old age he did not regret this step, as the following recent statement from his pen will show:

“Looking back over nearly thirty years of medical service rendered to suffering humanity, I do not regret the decision I then made. Indeed, it is one of the most pleasing reflections of my life that by careful research and study I was enabled to be instrumental in saving life, promoting health and bringing happiness to thousands of suffering mortals. I also rejoice in the memory of having been used of God as a feeble instrument in the conversion of souls. And now while only waiting till the ‘shadows are a little longer grown,’ I am thrilled by the anticipation of a blessed reunion with many who have ministered unto me, or I unto them, in the close relations we have sustained in life. I ascribe the praise and glory of whatever I have been enabled to accomplish to God the giver of all good.”

His conversation was that of the polished Christian gentleman, and his bearing and manner that of a devoted child of God. Any one could approach him and become assured of his sincere regard. There was no affectation or pretense in his make-up. He did his best in everything, and never pretended to be able to do more than that. He had brains and used them, had a great heart and showed it in gentle, loving, devoted and helpful sympathy and service toward all. His record is honorable, his achievements great. May he rest in peace.

EDITORIAL.

WITH this issue THE QUARTERLY enters upon its second year. It has outgrown the swaddling clothes of babyhood and has now become a quite promising infant; yet it will require a great deal of watchful care and patient nursing to bring it safely through all the trials and tribulations incident to the period of infancy. During the past year, it has given its readers a goodly amount of valuable material which has been unearthed in this hitherto unexplored portion of our country. But we can assure our readers that we have not yet—in the language of our friends of the petroleum persuasion—“struck ile.” We have merely given an inkling of what there is, and have presented, perhaps, a sufficient amount to demonstrate its quality, and now, if we receive sufficient encouragement, we propose to continue this work on the same lines and to prosecute it vigorously until the whole field shall be explored. As we have said before, we cannot think of printing everything in THE QUARTERLY; but it will be our aim to ascertain the localities of the treasures and point them out to our readers, so that they can do the rest.

ONE of our correspondents who is engaged in collecting material for a genealogy has expressed a desire for a form of circular and blank to send for the purpose of eliciting information; a circular which will point out clearly and concisely the various items of fact wanted and couched in language which will so impress the recipient with the value and utility of genealogy that he will not fail to respond, and a blank upon which any one, no matter how dull of comprehension he may be, can record the facts called for. We hope our readers will respond with such suggestions as their own experience may dictate; but our own experience has led us to the belief that no form can be adopted which will reach all cases. Some would fill out all blanks properly, while others would pay no attention to the various columns or spaces; so we finally gave up the use of blanks and left it with each person to state his facts in his own way.

“It is the purpose of the society to collect a library, primarily devoted to local history and genealogy.” Such is the language of the opening clause of the paragraph in the first circular issued by The “Old Northwest” Genealogical Society stating the objects of the organization, and we are now happy to chronicle the fact that the purpose thus stated has already been ushered in, and an exceedingly creditable beginning has been made toward such a collection of material. The Society has received, during the past year, a considerable number of books for notice in THE QUARTERLY, and has thus formed a nucleus for a library. A few weeks ago our former Historian, Major Ward, who has almost from the first inception of the Society agitated the subject of a library and a place to keep it, placed in his office at No. 74 East Gay street, this city, a nice book case, and also placed therein for the use of the Society a number of valuable books of his own (among them are books containing the names and records of service of many thousands of Revolutionary soldiers, which are now of great value to the genealogist), which, together with those which the Society already had, made a very creditable showing; then, to cap the climax, Messrs. Frank T. Cole and William G. Pengelly, of this Society, made donations of a sufficient number to nearly fill up the available space then remaining in the case. As very few of these books are duplicated in the State Library, we feel that the Society has made a very important addition to the available genealogical literature of this section, and we hope our members will manifest their appreciation of the kindness of those who have thus so generously inaugurated this movement. We would also say to those who may have any appropriate books or pamphlets which they desire to contribute to this collection, room will be found for all they may feel disposed to give, and they will be most thankfully received and due acknowledgment for the same will be made in THE QUARTERLY.

COMPARATIVELY few of those who are engaged in genealogical work have more postage stamps (or the wherewithal to procure the same) than they need to use in the correspondence incident to their own work; therefore we would suggest to those who apply for information concerning families collaterally connected with such as they may find mentioned in THE QUARTERLY, as having genealogies in preparation, to send at least sufficient stamps to pay the return postage.

CIRCUMSTANCES over which we had no control have delayed this issue of THE QUARTERLY, and consequently we are able to present to our readers a synopsis of what was done at the annual meeting of the Society on the 6th inst. A full list of the officers elected can be found on page 3 of the advertising inset, to which we would refer the reader. Dr. Orton positively but most courteously declined a re-election to the presidency, feeling that he had made a sufficient sacrifice of time as a moving spirit in the management of the affairs of the Society and he desired to retire from the presidency, with all of its responsibilities, and become a humble worker. The thanks of the Society were voted him for the wise and most efficient manner in which he had directed the affairs of the Society during the first two years of its existence, and as a token of recognition of his most eminent services in behalf of the Society he was made an honorary member.

We think the Society has shown wisdom in selecting Dr. Taylor to succeed Dr. Orton in the presidency, and they were indeed very fortunate in having such a member whom they could elect. We shall look for continued growth and prosperity under his administration, for he is a most efficient and zealous worker in both history and genealogy.

The usual monotonous routine of our stated meetings was very greatly relieved by an address by Dr. Taylor. He dwelt at some length upon the subject of the heredity of nations, as well as of individuals, and its bearing upon civilization and government. We cannot command space here enumerate even a small portion of the rich things contained in the address, but we hope in the next issue to present it to our readers in its entirety.

It will also be noticed that besides the vice-president for Ohio one was elected from each of the states of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, and in accordance with the mandate of Article V of the By-Laws, honorary vice-presidents for the states of California and Maryland were elected. We hope that the Society will soon gain a foothold in Indiana, so that it can elect a vice-president for that state. The Society also, at its last meeting, elected a committee on publication. This movement will greatly relieve the executive committee and, we sincerely hope, will result in the improvement of THE QUARTERLY.

THE wisdom of the change made in Constitution of this Society providing for the admission of associate members is already fully proven by the number of such members elected at the two last meetings. It will certainly prove more satisfactory to those living outside the limits of the Old Northwest to be identified with the Society and become an integral part of its structure than to be, as formerly, mere lookers-on or lay readers of its publication. They can now enjoy the same communal interest with those who are located within the above named portion of our country. We therefore extend a most cordial invitation to all persons located upon this continent within the limits of the domain over which waves the proud emblem bearing the stars and stripes who are in sympathy with the objects for which we are consociated to cast their lot with and become one of us.

WE would call the attention of the members of the Society and subscribers to THE QUARTERLY to the notice on page 1 of the advertising department of this issue. This magazine is not of an ephemeral nature, to be cast into the waste basket as soon as received, but is of permanent and ever increasing value, as has been amply demonstrated in the history of other publications of the same class, some of the early volumes and numbers of which are now scarcely obtainable and command almost fabulous prices. We therefore hope our readers will profit by the experience of others and carefully preserve their own copies—and there is no other method equal to good, substantial binding, such as we are prepared to furnish, and samples of which can be seen at the office of The Champlin Printing Co., 74 East Gay street, this city.

TO INSURE the permanence and extend the usefulness of this Society there is probably no method equal to that of life memberships, which provide a permanent fund the income of which can always be depended upon for the expenses of the Society. Also the placing in the hands of the Society an endowment fund of the same amount ($25.00), for the benefit of a college or public library would greatly inure to the benefit of two institutions, as one would receive the benefit of our publications and the other would receive the income of the fund. Who will inaugurate the movement and start the ball a rolling?

ORTON.—We are pleased to note that our worthy President, Dr. Edward Orton, was elected President of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at its last annual meeting. The most agreeable feature to the recipient is, the honor came to him entirely unexpected and unsought. It must be conceded that the society has reflected great honor upon itself in the selection of its presiding officer.

PENGELLY.—Members of this Society will be glad to learn that our Treasurer, Mr. William George Pengelly, has been elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland; also a member of the Royal Institution of Cornwall (England). As these learned societies have certain objects in common with our own, we may expect to profit by exchange of publications and courtesies.

GRISWOLD.—"Judge" Horace Griswold resided in Binghampton, N. Y., for many years previous to about 1870, when he died. I do not know his father's name. He was a man of great ability. He had sons Horace and William L., the latter being an attorney at Binghampton and m. a dau. of the late T. G. Rich of that city. LILLEY, LILLY, LILL.—Are ancient Lincolnshire names. There was a Hugh Lilly in the wapentake of "Aswardhurn," South Lincolnshire, England, in the reign of Edward I. At the same time the names of Lille and Lillie occurred in Oxfordshire. Vide "Hundred Rolls."

MOORE (Vol. I., p. 147.)—This name is now distributed all over England, excluding the south coast, where with the exception of Devon and Kent it is absent or singularly uncommon. Its principal homes are in Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridgeshire, Cheshire, Yorkshire, Worcestershire and Devonshire (vide Guppy.) There appears to be some reason for believing that Andrew Moore came from Co. Chester, England. Vide Cheshire Parish Registers.

RHODAM (Vol. I., p. 198.)—The Marquis de Ruvigny and Raineval, 20 Ruvigny Gardens, London, S. W., England, Hon. President of the Legitimist Jacobite League of Great Britain and Ireland, will doubtless be able to supply the information desired. He has recently, in conjunction with Mr. Cranstoun Metcalfe, sent to the press "The Legitimist Kalendar for 1899," containing a large amount of historical information which is not accessible to the ordinary reader, and which contains additional lists of those adherents of the House of Stuart who suffered for their cause during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.

Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think will be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service in any of the wars of our country (which may be of material benefit to those who may desire to establish their eligibility for membership in the various patriotic societies), other service under the U. S. government, the holding of other offices, graduation from colleges or professional schools, occupations, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one Christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initials should be used when the full names are known.

Brewster.—Miss Emma C. B. Jones, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, is preparing a genealogy of the descendants of Elder William Brewster. On application, she will furnish circulars, giving detailed information, and record blanks to all who may desire to send information.

Crane.—Mr. Ellery B. Crane, of Worcester, Mass., who published several years since Vol. I. of his Genealogy of the Crane Family, has in preparation Vol. II. of the same work, and is being assisted by Mrs. D. H. Law, of Dixon, Ill.

Cotton.—Mr. Frank E. Cotton, of Woburn, Mass., is preparing a genealogy of the Cotton families of America.

Ebert.—Mr. George W. Ebert, 1321 South Adams St., Peoria, Ill., is preparing a genealogy of the Ebert family in America.

How-Howe.—Hon. Daniel Waite Howe, of Indianapolis, Ind., is collecting data for a genealogy of the above named family.

Hunter.—Mr. Edgar J. Hunter, of 202 Clark St., Chicago, Ill., is compiling a small genealogy of the Hunter family, beginning with the Hon. Edward Hunter of Marlboro, Mass., and to include all the descendants of Jonathan Hunter and Hannah Walkup.

Ide.—A genealogical history of the Ide family, descended from Nicholas Ide of Rehoboth, is being prepared by Mr. Herbert C. Ide, of Webster, Mass.

Prince.—Mr. F. A. Prince, 281 Main St., Danielson, Conn., is preparing a genealogy of the Prince family.

BOOK NOTICES.

[It is suggested that persons sending books for notice state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage, or charges, when sent by mail or express.]

*The American Genealogical Record Giving the Genealogy and History of some American Families, tracing their ancestry to Ante-Revolutionary Times. Vol. I. The Stephens Family with Collateral Branches. By Edward Stephens Clark, M. D. San Francisco: Jos. Winterburn Company, Book and Job Printers and Electrotypers. 1892. 8vo. half morocco, pp. viii+185.

This volume, being the first of a series of books by Dr. Clark (who, by the way, is now President of the California Genealogical Society), gives a quite graphic account of Peter Stephens, who was born (probably in Pennsylvania) sometime about 1690 to 1700, and in 1732, with others, settled in the Valley of Virginia, where they founded the town of Stephensburg. From this place his descendants have branched out, passing into Kentucky and thence to various states in the south and west, and many of them—including the author of this book—are now located upon the Pacific coast. The book takes up collateral branches quite extensively, and those now engaged upon genealogies of other families can find more or less matter which will be of service to them. The families other than Stephens most numerous represented in the book are: Adams, Armstrong, Baker, Brindley, Campbell, Clark, Crandall, Davis, Garrard, Grubbs, Hansberger, Hibler, Honey, Howard, Leach, Levens, McCollum, Malone, Maxwell, Moore, Muir, Pettus, Robinson, Rowles, Smiley, Varden and Yates. The book is well arranged, has a good index, numerous portraits, and is nicely printed and bound. We hope to have the pleasure of noticing other volumes of this series in future issues of THE QUARTERLY.

The Early Genealogies of the Cole Families in America. (Including Coles and Cowles.) With Some Account of the Descendants of James Cole, of Hartford, Connecticut, 1635—1652, and of Thomas Cole, of Salem, Massachusetts, 1649—1672. Frank T. Cole. Columbus, O.: 1887. 8vo. paper, pp. xxxii, 308.

This book, published eleven years ago (by a member of this Society), contains the result of investigations extending through several years, relating to several families bearing the names Cole, Coles or Cowles, which were printed in order that "the results of that study might be of use to some future student, if they were placed in an accessible form." The author also says in his preface: "It is the expectation to publish some time in the future, an enlarged and revised history of the Salem family of Thomas Cole, and in anticipation thereof correspondence is solicited, with a view to making the work complete. It may not come for five years, nor for twenty-five, but if time and strength and length of days are granted, it will come." We know that Mr. Cole has now on hand much valuable material which he has obtained since the publication of his book, and it is greatly to be hoped that those of the name and blood will so promptly and generously respond, with both genealogical data and financial support, that he may be able to publish a greatly enlarged edition of his book in the near future. The book is nicely printed, has several portraits, and a good index of Cole and other names.

Walter Allen of Newbury, Mass., 1640 and some of his Descendants. With a Few Notes on the Allen Family in General. By Allen H. Bent of Boston, Member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society. Boston: David Clapp & Son, Printers. 1896. 8vo. pamphlet, pp. 66.

The Bent Family. Four Generations in America. By Allen H. Bent, of Roxbury, Mass. Reprinted from the New-England Historical and Genealogical Register for July, 1894. Boston: David Clapp & Son, Printers. 1894. 8vo. paper, pp. 10.

The Comey-Comee Family in America. Descendant of David Comey of Concord, Mass., killed in King Philip's War, 1676. With Notes on the Maltman Family. By Allen H. Bent of Boston, Member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society. Boston: David Clapp & Son, Printers. 1896. 8vo. paper, pp. 50.

The Fenno Family. By Allen H. Bent. Reprinted from the New-England Historical and Genealogical Register for Oct., 1898. Boston: Printed by David Clapp & Son. 1898. 8vo. paper, pp. 11.

The four pamphlets above named set forth the lineage of their author in the respective families back to the immigrant ancestors, and give much information concerning the military service of many of the members in the various wars, from the early period of the colonies down to recent times. The author has in contemplation a complete account of the descendants of Walter Allen, which he hopes to print at some future time. The two larger pamphlets are thoroughly indexed; the others being so small that an index is not needed.

*A Genealogical History of the Felton Family; descendants of Lieutenant Nathaniel Felton, who came to Salem, Mass., in 1633; with few Supplements and Appendices, of the Names of some of the Ancestors of the Families that have Intermarried with them. An Index alphabetically arranged, of the Felton Families, also An Index of other names than Felton. By Cyrus Felton, The Compiler of "A Brief Account of some of the Descendants of Nathaniel and Mary Felton, of Salem, Mass." Published August, 1877, Marlborough: Pratt Brothers, Printers and Publishers. 1886. 8vo. cloth, pp. 260.

The character and scope of this book is so fully delineated upon its title-page that it would be superfluous to give even an outline of its contents. It contains a goodly amount of matter, arranged in compact form upon the Register plan. It has no illustrations to render it attractive to those who require such a stimulus to induce them to notice a book, but the print is good and the binding is equally good. Much information concerning allied families can be found in the book, all of which is rendered accessible to the searcher by a good index.

Descendants of John Fairman, of Enfield, Conn. 1683—1898. By Orrin Peer Allen, Palmer, Mass. Member of the New-England Historic Genealogical Society. Member of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Corresponding Secretary Conn. Valley Historical Society. Member of the American Historical Association. * * * *
N. p., n. d. 8vo. paper, pp. 36. 75 cts.

The first notice found of John Fairman (or Firman) was in the Town Records of Salem, Mass., in 1674, and the next was May 12, 1683, when he received a grant of land in Enfield, Conn., where he died in 1684. His origin seems somewhat uncertain, but there are some reasons for considering him the son of the John Firman who "came over in 1630 and settled in Watertown. He probably came from Suffolk, England.

Mr. Allen, in his preface, says: "While this genealogy is not as full as the compiler might desire, it is hoped it may stimulate some future historian to gather the stray threads of family life and gather them into completeness. * * * Any additions or corrections will be thankfully received by the compiler." There is a good index of Fairman names and also one of other names.

Descendants of Daniel Prince Born May 1st, 1755. By Frank A. Prince, Danielson, Conn. 8vo. paper, pp. 11.

Daniel Prince was born in Birmingham, England, May 1, 1755. He came to this country in 1777 under General Burgoyne, and after the surrender at Saratoga, when passing through Massachusetts with the prisoners on the way to Boston, he, with many others, fell out by the way and became an American citizen. He took up his residence in Williamsburg, Mass., and married Mary Packard, of Goshen, Mass. This little pamphlet partly traces the descent of two of his eight children, who were twins, named Daniel and James and who lived to the ages of 92 and 93 years respectively. The compiler is preparing a genealogy of the Prince family (see p. 40) and this small pamphlet will serve a good purpose as a guide for those who desire to furnish information for the larger work.

Year-Book of the Ohio Society of the Sons of the American Revolution 1898 Edited for the Society by Lucius Carroll Herrick, M. D. Historian of the Ohio Society S. A. R.; Secretary and Librarian of The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Society; Editor of The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Quarterly, etc., etc. Columbus, Ohio Published by the Society MDCXCXVIII 8vo. cloth, pp. x, 289. $1.50; postage, 25 cts.

This book has just been issued, and corresponds in the arrangement of its contents with the previous issues of the society's publications under the editorial supervision of Major Ward. The accession of new members has helped to expand the book somewhat, and the addition of a list of graves of Revolutionary soldiers, each accompanied with more or less descriptive matter, adds 52 pages—containing about 250 names—to the book. All matter is arranged alphabetically, as much as possible, so that a simple table of contents is an amply sufficient guide for the reader. As Revolutionary service is now almost invariably noted by genealogists in their publications, works of this class are invaluable to them; for the service of an ancestor must be positively proven in order to gain admission to the society. The mechanical execution of the book is of the elegant quality characteristic of the Champlin Printing Co. The colors of the Order—blue, white and buff—are represented in the binding.

Lineage Book of the Charter Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution (Revised.) Mary S. Lockwood, Historian General. Amor Patriæ. 1890-1891. Harrisburg, Pa. : Harrisburg Publishing Co. 1895. 8vo. paper, pp. 26+xi+304.

Lineage Book National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Elizabeth Bryant Johnson, Historian General. Washington, D. C. 1896. 8vo. paper, pp. xvi+408.

These two books constitute the first and second volumes of the publications of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The first volume contains the names and lineages of the 818 Charter Members of the National Society and the second one commences with the next serial number (819) and includes No. 2000. In tracing the lineage of each member back to her Revolutionary ancestor, we obtain a vast array of facts which will furnish many a clue of great service to the practical genealogist. The books are supplied with two indexes: one of members and the other of ancestors. The typography and make-up of the books are most elegant (the covers being of white parchment paper), and thoroughly in harmony with the subject-matter. We hope to have the pleasure of calling the attention of our readers to the succeeding volumes of this most valuable publication.

Collections of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin Edited and Annotated By Reuben Gold Thwaites Secretary and Superintendent of the Society Vol XIV Published by Authority of Law Madison Democrat Printing Company, State Printer 1898 8vo cloth, pp. xii+553.

This volume relates mostly to the early history of Wisconsin, both as a territory and a state, treating more at length of the early military posts and Indian agencies and of the Catholic missions, and contains a large fund of information concerning the early settlements and the development of that portion of our country. Space will not permit an analysis of its contents, or to point out the most valuable articles for the genealogist. Of course, names are most important, and the book contains many, all of which are made accessible by a good index. We will gladly welcome other volumes of this series.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE "OLD NORTHWEST" GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY.

October 7.—Stated meeting. The Society met at the Y. M. C. A. building in Columbus, Ohio, the following members being present: Messrs. Cole, Gard, Jennings, Johnson, Pengelly, Ward and Whayman (Hon. member), of Columbus; Mr. Buckingham of Zanesville, Ohio; Mrs. Rath-Merrill and Miss Tilton and Dr. Herrick of Columbus.

Professor Cole was called to the chair.

The minutes of the last stated meeting were read and approved.

The proposed amendments to the Constitution and By-Laws which were introduced at the stated meeting in June, viz.: Articles III, IV, VI and VII of the Constitution, providing for associate members in all states outside the Old Northwest, and changing Article six so that members one year, instead of two years, in arrears for dues, shall forfeit their membership; Article V of the By-Laws so that it will read: "The honorary vice-presidents shall be chosen from members of the Society residing in the States which they represent."

On motion, the amendments were all adopted.

Major Ward moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Whayman for his untiring zeal in working for the welfare of the Society, which was unanimously carried.

The matter of the entertainment for the benefit of the Society was then called up, and Mr. Whayman, as Chairman of the Committee, reported that he had corresponded with persons residing in the five states of the Old Northwest and found that he could obtain the loan of a large number of portraits, MSS., genealogies, etc.; but he estimated that it would cost something like $600 for express charges, and the committee did not feel at liberty to incur such an expense. On motion, the matter was indefinitely postponed.

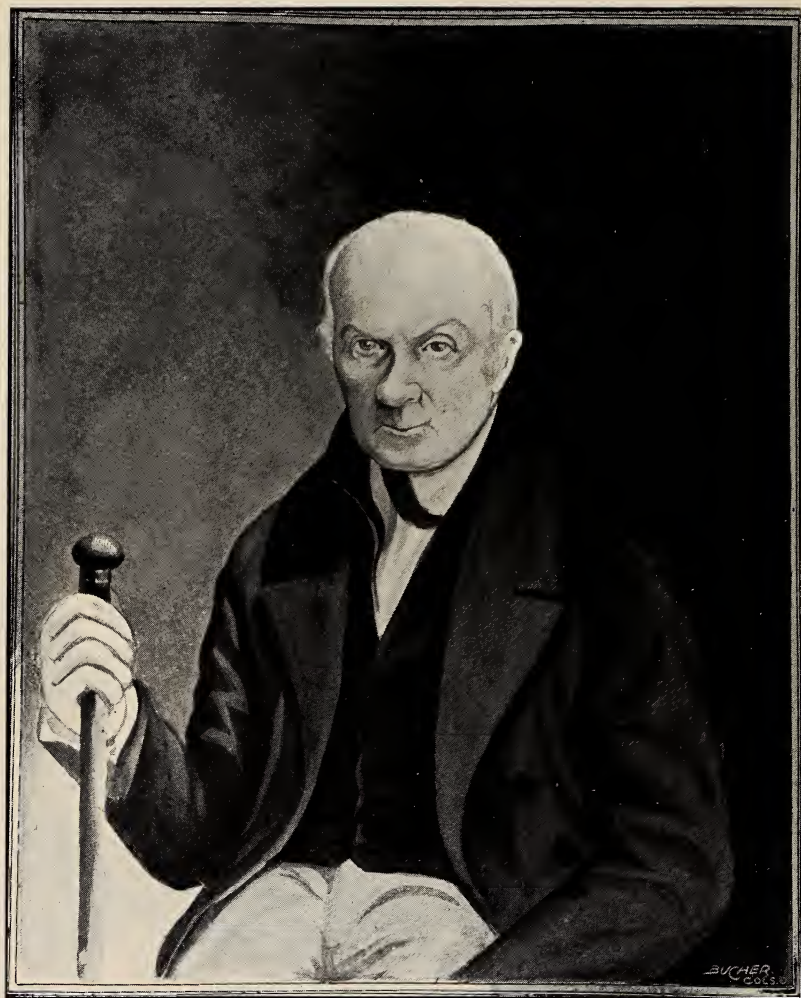

The Executive Committee recommended the following named applicants for membership, and a ballot was then taken and all were elected:

Resident members—Walter Raymond Colton, William Bartholomew Lawrence, Joseph Palmer Merrill, Nellie Herrick, David Parkinson, William Horace Tremain, William Bucher, of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Marion A. Buckingham, of Hillsboro, Ohio; Mrs. Frederick J. Cutter, of Marietta, Ohio; Scott Jordan, Ebenezer Buckingham, of Chicago, Ill. Associate members—Alfred Wyman Hoar, Monticello, Minnesota; Albert L. Steinfeld, B. A., Baltimore, Maryland.

Mr. Whayman moved a vote of thanks to the President and Executive Committee for their work in behalf of the Society. The motion was carried.

On motion, the price of Vol. I of THE QUARTERLY, in paper binding, was made $3.00.

On motion, the Society then adjourned.

JOHN GORDON

By the Rev. ARCHIBALD ALEXANDER EDWARD TAYLOR, D. D. LL. D., of Columbus, O.

We present to you a brief sketch of Mr. John Gordon, whose portrait forms the frontispiece of this number.

Somewhere about 1738 two brothers, James and John Gordon, natives of Newry, County Down, Ireland, but of Scotch ancestry, and of excellent family, emigrated to Virginia. The older of these, James, settled in Lancaster County on the Northern Neck and is described later on as "A rich shipping merchant on Corotoman river, near Chesapeake Bay." Here he resided for more than thirty years, becoming possessed of several large plantations and many negro servants. He imported all his stocks of goods and kept a store of general merchandise.

He married Agatha Conway, daughter of Maj. James Conway, closely connected with the family of President Madison. She died early leaving one child. He married a second time Mary Harrison, daughter of Nathaniel Harrison of Brandon and cousin of Governor Benjamin Harrison, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and a Senator from Virginia.

Col. Gordon kept a Diary which is largely filled with "rum, negroes and religion"—being accounts of his cargoes landed from Jamaica and other foreign ports; the doings and difficulties with his servants; and accounts of religious services and of his numerous guests. He was a devout and liberal Christian and an Elder in the Presbyterian church. His Diary, which covers several years contains very interesting sketches of Rev. Samuel Davies, George Whitfield and other eminent divines and especially his pastor, Dr. James Waddell, the blind preacher described by William Wirt in the British Spy. Dr. Waddell married Mary Gordon, daughter of Col. Gordon, who left several other sons and daughters. An obituary notice of Col. Gordon in the "Virginia Gazette" Jan. 14, 1768 is highly laudatory, not only as to the gentleness and loveliness of his character, but as to his life of usefulness and devotion to the interests of others.

A full description of him with a portion of his Diary are published in "Foote's Sketches of Virginia."

John Gordon, whose picture we give, the youngest child of Col. Gordon, was but two and a half years old at the time of his father's death. He was named for his uncle, the immigrant John, who settled at Urbana in Middlesex Co. and from whom the Gordons of Albemarle descended, and the founders of Gordonville, Va.

The younger John was raised after the death of his devoted mother in the family of Dr. Waddell, his sister's husband, to whom he ever remained most devoted. He received a generous education and when he came of age, took possession of one of the plantations of his father's estate, on Cedar Creek, Frederick Co., twenty miles above Winchester in the Shenandoah Valley. (In recent times Sheridan's battle of Cedar Creek was fought over his farm.)

Mr. Gordon married Betty Lee Ball, whose grandmother Betty Lee, a daughter of Hancock Lee, was of the celebrated family productive of so many eminent statesmen and soldiers in earlier and later days. He thus became related by marriage to the Ball family, maternal ancestors of Washington, to the Conways, maternal ancestors of Madison and through the Lees to President Zachary Taylor. Through his mother he was descended from the Harrisons, ancestors of two Presidents and of the well known Mayors of Chicago.

Mr. Gordon raised a family of five sons and five daughters. He was a model Virginia gentleman, courteous and benevolent to a fault and was very strong intellectually. Like his father, he was a devoted Presbyterian and very zealous in support of religion. After his family were grown he sold his plantation, manumitted his slaves and sent a goodly number of them to Ohio, literally "dividing among them his living." Many of them were devoted to him and to his children to the end of his days. He came in 1833 to Piqua, Ohio, with his youngest daughter, to reside with his son of the same name. Here he passed in quietude the evening of his life and passed away May 7, 1842 in his 77th year having maintained his mental vigor, all his senses and his physical health until the end.

These Gordons were undoubtedly connected with the Scotch royal clan and Alexander, 4th Duke of Gordon, who visited the family in Scotland acknowledged the relationship. They also hold the Gordon Coat of Arms,* engraved on all their silver plate, bearing the noted motto "Byd and," meaning "Fidelity."

A number of pieces of this silver, as two tankards, a cream pitcher, and two pairs of castors are now in the family. This brief sketch has been written by his grandson, Rev. A. A. E. Taylor, D. D., who has permitted us to use the plate from which the portrait is made. Elsewhere we present a plate containing two pictures of the celebrated silver Gordon tankard brought from Scotland when the two brothers came over, which is also the property of Dr. Taylor.

NOTES ON THE STONE FAMILY, ANCESTORS OF D. E. PHILLIPS, COMPILED FROM LOCAL NEW ENGLAND HISTORIES AND FAMILY RECORDS.

By DAVID EVERETT PHILLIPS, of Columbus, Ohio.

1. GREGORY¹ STONE, b. in Essex county, England, 1592; m. in Eng., 1617, widow Lydia Cooper, who had two children by her first husband named John and Lydia, who were reared in his family and were remembered in his will. He emigrated with his family in 1635, lived two years at Watertown, Mass., having grants of land there, taking the freeman's oath in 1636. The following year, he removed to Cambridge, Mass., and became one of the largest landed proprietors of that town and Lexington, his possessions extending to the banks of Charles river and included a part of the site of the celebrated Mt. Auburn Cemetery. His home remained in the possession of his posterity as late as 1830. He was a leading man in the town and colony, one of the founders of the first church of Cambridge and a deacon of the same for a period of thirty-four years. He was also a representative in the general assembly in 1638; was one of the governor's deputies and a magistrate of the town of Cambridge; from all which it is apparent that he possessed in a liberal degree those elements characteristic of the founders of New England. He d. Nov. 30, 1672, aged 80 years, the last surviving original member of the first church of Cambridge. His will, made eight days before his death, is still preserved and has been printed in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register. His gravestone is standing in the old cemetery near Harvard College. It is a rough-hewn stone, some six inches thick, two feet in height and bears simply the letters "G. S." cut deeply.

*A description of the Arms will appear in the next number of THE QUARTERLY.

It is identified by the fact of its standing next beside that of his eldest son, "Elder John Stone," upon which is engraved a full inscription. Children, b. in England :

He was the youngest of the family born, either in England or upon the voyage. Upon his marriage, he settled at the center of the "great Stone farm" and village east of his brother David, where he took a leading part in the settlement of Lexington, then the north precinct of Cambridge. His house was built near the corner of Weston and Lincoln streets, was occupied by his posterity for more than a century, was known in later years as the "old Stone house" and was taken down about 1845. In 1682, he with several others petitioned the General Court for an act constituting them as a separate parish. The Cambridge church protested against this cession and the matter was postponed some ten years; finally, in 1691, the act of incorporation was passed, a house of worship erected soon afterwards, and on October 21, 1696, "the church was gathered" and Rev. Benjamin Estabrook ordained pastor. Samuel Stone was one of its first ten members and was one of its first deacons. He was assessor of the parish and a member of every important committee. THE WEST AS A FIELD FOR HISTORICAL STUDY.

By FREDERICK JACKSON TURNER, PH. D.

The Western historical societies have before them a noble future in the collection and utilization of the materials for the history of their section. The pioneers who saw the days of beginnings are passing away, and these societies find their proceedings less and less occupied with the interesting personal recollections of the path-breakers in the wilderness. Their record must more and more be written by the students of the younger generation; the early annals must be followed by the scientific investigation of the institutional and social development of the West. The full significance of a movement never reveals itself to the actors in that movement. The perspective of a longer distance of time is needed to reveal the real proportions and meaning of events. Thus, instead of diminishing in importance, the investigative work of the historical society steadily grows in its usefulness.

Moreover, the earlier tendencies of historical societies have been in the direction of antiquarian research. The description of archæological remains, the date of the first settler, the accounts of the life of the pioneer, have won so much of their attention that the collection of the less striking and picturesque material for history, and the latter development of the State, have frequently been neglected.

Our own society* has always been progressive in these respects. It has collected a library so full and so broad, that the Western man can study, not only all periods of his country's history, but all sections of that country. Nor has the Society forgotten that the history of one country is only to be understood in connection with the history of other countries and of other ages. In the same spirit, its publications have included useful monographs on the institutional development of the State, as well as papers devoted to the filial duty of recording the annals of the pioneers.

It is, therefore, with the confidence in the sympathy of this Society that I invite your attention to the inquiries why the West should be studied, what are some of the historical problems which it offers, where are there proper materials for the study, and how may they best be utilized?

If Western history had to do primarily with topics of antiquarian interest, it might well be thought that strenuous insistence upon its importance as a field for study indicated a provincial tendency, or was perhaps an illustration of the so-called "new sectionalism." But the last presidential campaign made it clear that the historic West holds a very important position in American political life at the present time. The West, therefore, needs to be understood. It requires analysis into the regions that compose it, and historical study of their development, in order that its social organization and ideals may not be subjected to ill-formed or passionate judgments. A study of aboriginal survivals will not help us here. What is needed is a widely extended and earnest historical inquiry into the development of Western society. Such an investigation into the historic basis of a state like Kansas, for instance, is absolutely essential to an understanding of the peculiar aspects of that state. When the Kansas of the Immigrants' Aid Society and of the "higher law," is brought into connection with the Kansas of to-day, we shall be in a position to explain some things that seem difficult to understand. Such an investigation, also, would enable us to estimate the significance of the leaders in the West who have so recently supported an aggressive programme of finance and social action. To apprehend the real significance of these men, they must be seen with the historical background of the society wherein they live. It must be seen that they are the products of a society that sprang from the eastern part of the middle West in the days when it was just passing from frontier conditions to conditions resembling those of the East. They reflect the struggle of this society to adjust the old Western ideals, based on the non-existence of classes, and freedom of opportunity, to the changed conditions of a settled nation competing with other settled nations.

Especially important is it that the prairie portion of the middle West should no longer be neglected by the historians. Successive frontiers of historical writing can be traced in this country. The school of American historians that dealt with colonial beginnings and the Revolution, on the Atlantic coast, were followed by a group of writers on the history of the states between the Alleghanies and the Mississippi; and, in the same way that the movement of settlement passed by the great plains to the Pacific coast, so there appeared next in order an extensive history of the Pacific states. The area last to be occupied, between the Mississippi and the Rockies, has not yet received adequate treatment. No doubt the coming works of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Winsor will do much to fill this gap; but for the present it is clear that here, within the Mississippi basin, one vast area, covering at least half a dozen states, is almost virgin soil for the historian. The brevity of its history, measured in years, should not blind us to real extent of the gap, measured by stages of institutional development, and by the significance of those few years as having brought forth in this area the social basis, in population, economic life, and ideals, for so vast a portion of the West. The very brevity of the period and quietness of the process make it a reason for grave apprehension lest the collections of original material needed to explain the origin of this area, may not be made in time to preserve them.

But it is not principally for itself that the West requires study. As I tried to show in a paper on the Significance of the Frontier, published by this Society in 1893, the real significance of Western history is that it is national history, in one of the most important aspects of national history, namely, that of expansion from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

One of the most important functions of the historian is to enable the present age to understand itself by understanding its origin and growth. It is impossible to account for the United States of to-day without fuller inquiry into this significant portion of its experience. The histories of the countries that shall be written in ignorance of this truth will unavoidably suffer from a wrong perspective. In corroboration of this view of the importance of the nation in dealing with an unoccupied continent, I desire to call attention to the words of the well-known geographer and anthropologist, Professor Ratzel, of Leipsic. "This wide territory," he says, "has furnished to the American spirit something of its own largeness. If one looks back upon the history of the region which to-day makes the United States, he sees the increasing preponderance, through the three centuries, of this conception of space." In this "sense of space," as he calls it, the author finds an explanation of some of the most distinctive features of American character.

But it is not only to the student of geography, that this interpretation will appeal. It is in its value as a field for the scientific study of social development, that the history of the United States finds its chief claim to attention. The spread of settled society into these continental wastes, and the free development of a democracy in relation to unoccupied lands, constitute the peculiar features of our national life, Henry Adams has well said:

"Should history ever become a true science, it must expect to establish its laws, not from the complicated story of European nationalities, but from the methodical evolution of a great democracy. North America was the most favorable field on the globe for a spread of a society so large, uniform and isolated as to answer the purpose of science."

It need hardly be said that for such a sociological interpretation of our history the western movement is fundamental. In this movement one can trace social development under the influence of the free opportunities of the unoccupied area. The wilderness has been the melting-pot and the mould for American institutions; it has been a field for a new species of social life.

Whether the historian trace the process of exploration, Indian fighting, settlement, and wilderness-winning, or investigate its institutional origins, or the development of the social ideals of the West, there is abundance of opportunity open to him.

The Indian, as well as the negro, should receive scientific study. The management of the Indians by the general government is awaiting attention; their land cessions and the history of their reservations and removals ought to be worked up; and, in general, the process by which the savage gave way to civilization in the farther West remains to be written.

On the economic side we have topics like the rise of the great industries of the West—the development of the mining, ranching, and forest industries, and their effects upon the social organization that followed them. The historical geography of the areas of these and the various agricultural industries should be studied, and their transitoin from one economic status to another, with its political accompaniments, should be described. It is unnecessary to do more than call attention to the wealth of material awaiting the student of transportation in the West, and to the need of writing the financial history of the newer states, and the history of the land tenure in the areas so recently public domain.

Nor is the field less attractive to the student of political history. The history of the territorial governments, and of the territorial system in general, remains to be written. We shall not understand the history of political parties in this country until the history of political parties in the Western states receives more attention. Nor have the admission of the Western states into the Union, the formation of their constitutions, and the sources of their political institutions, been sufficiently considered. The West is a rich museum of political forms and experimentations that will reward study.

Even more important is the history of social development in the West. The rise of its cities, and their development in relation to phisiography and economic influences; the types of life that have been thus created, the movement of immigration from the old world, and the interstate migration into the West require more than the statistician's care. A new society, with a composite nationality, still in the process of formation, is before us, and its history is almost untouched.

A preliminary inquiry into the sources of the study of the formative period of the states of the Old Northwest, whose earlier history has been told by Professor Hinsdale and other writers, does not prove entirely reassuring to the investigator. The Secretary of this society, Mr. R. G. Thwaites, has procured the careful compilation of the data respecting some of the more important documents for the history of these states. Manuscript collections are far from abundant; although I am assured that there are some collections under seal, and not to be opened until a later date, that are not reported in published catalogues. Newspaper material for the earlier decades in the settlement of each state is painfully rare, and it is even impossible to find, in any one library, complete sets of laws of all these states, to say nothing of jounals and public documents. It would seem that not until the slavery struggle loomed before the Northwest, did it collect its records, and develop a consciousness of the importance of its mission. It is clear that a redoubled effort should be made to bring into the safe keeping of libraries the scattered private collection of old letters, Journals, account-books, etc., newspaper files, public documents, and pamphlets. The lesson taught by the scattered and broken historical material for the investigation of the Old Northwest should be taken to heart by the new communities between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains. Our own collections are unfortunately weak in this field, but it may well be doubted whether there is any collection for the whole region to compare with them, in the libraries of more western states.

It is time that the historical societies of the West should meet in convention and plan a systematic campaign for the collection and use of historical material bearing upon this neglected area. The field is so vast and the task of collection so great that such a systematic organization of work is almost a necessity. One desideratum is a catalogue of all the sources in the libraries of the country, bearing on the history of the West. The scattered condition of these sources, and the difficulty of collecting and reprinting them after the manner of the colonial archives, makes it impossible for any single library in the West to serve the purpose of the investigator, although our own comes nearest to doing this. The alternative must be the development of a system of exchange between libraries, the cultivation of inter-university migration by students of Western history, and the formation of a plan of co-operative study, whereby certain lines of inquiry will be carried on by the students nearest the sources for that especial subject. The historical societies, in general, should devote increasing attention to institutional history, through the contributions of graduate students and other trained investigators. Only by such co-operative and systematic pushing forward of the lines of investigation, will it be possible to give the correct perspective to American history.

EARLY NEW CONNECTICUT MARRIAGES.

By HARLEY BARNES, of Painesville, Ohio.

On July 10, 1800, the county of Trumbull was erected by the government of the Northwest Territory. It included the entire Western Reserve, with the county seat at Warren. Previous to this date the New Connecticut land had been at different times nominally included in Washington and Jefferson counties, and a part of it in Wayne county, and, perhaps, at an earlier date, in Augusta county, Virginia, but the jurisdiction of the United States was disputed by the few inhabitants, and no organized government existed until August 25, 1800. On this date the first "Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace" was "begun and holden at Warren."

John Stark Edwards, of Mesopotamia, was the first Recorder, and with him were recorded the marriages solemnized under Territorial jurisdiction. Other marriages were known to have taken place prior to the organization of Trumbull county, but we have found no record of them. The following are from Vol. "A" of Trumbull County Records of Deeds, pages 225, 226, 227 and 228, and are believed to include all of the Territorial Marriage Records on the Western Reserve. We give only the summary of facts from each certificate. The documents themselves are in many cases quaint literature.

PRIDE OF ANCESTRY;

AN ADDRESS BEFORE THE "OLD NORTHWEST" GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, AND PRINTED BY VOTE OF THE SOCIETY.

BY REV. ARCHIBALD A. E. TAYLOR, D. D., LL. D., of Columbus, Ohio.

There are doubtless some very practical persons, ever ready with their little bundle of interrogation marks, who will question the practical utility of a Society, such as ours. They will say:—"What is the object of a genealogical society? Why be so anxious about ancestry, since the ancestors are all dead? Let the dead bury their dead. What entertainment can one find in a barren catalogue of uncouth and unfamiliar names?" Well, whether it be utilitarian or not, it is certainly a natural instinct in the race to turn back toward fountains of humanity. Some persons may prefer to float down the broad current of the river. But others may find more interest in tracing the creeks and branches, the brooks and rivulets of which the river is the product. Interest in the forefathers is historical and forms largely the material of our earliest records.

Scripture history opens with an account of the origin of the first man, the first woman and the first family. Later on appears the oldest genealogical tree. "This is the book, (or register) of the generations of Adam. And Adam lived an hundred and thirty years and begat a son, in his own likeness, after his image; and called his name Seth." (Gen. V.) [This by the way, is the earliest text for the doctrine of heredity, sometimes boasted as a modern discovery of Science. For the likeness and image no one can claim to be merely physical.] And so the first ancestral table goes on:—"And Seth lived 105 years and begat Enos, &c." In the next chapter we have the records of the generations of Noah. And in the 10th chapter and the 11th, appear the generations of the Sons of Noah, down to Abraham. Later on we read how "Abraham begat Isaac and Isaac begat Jacob and Jacob begat Joseph and his brethren." So also the ancestry of David is traced. Nor can we forget that in the opening of two of the Gospels are found records of the pedigree of Jesus of Nazareth.

We learn from history that some of the Oriental Philosophers derived the angelic and spiritual natures of mankind according to a fantastic system, from their predecessors; whence the doctrine passed to some of the earlier Grecian sects. And here is another trace, at least five hundred years before the Christian era, of the philosophical doctrine of heredity. These heathen philosophers went so far indeed as to follow to their origin the genealogy of their heroes and subordinate gods, of which the myth of Romulus and Remus is a familiar example. Old Holinshed in his history of England, referring to this historic tendency says:—"Which genealogical recapitulation in their national families and tribes, other people also have observed; as the Spaniards, who reckon their descent from Hesperus before the Gothes and Moors overran their land." Indeed the practical value of genealogical research as accounting for national character may be found in this very Spanish race. Starting from the Celts and Iberians of Gaul, they commingled by liberal emigration with Greek and Carthaginian (African) colonists, and Phœnician hordes, bringing the most corrupt and vicious blood that ever flowed on the face of the earth; transforming their very worship of deity into the vilest carnality and the utter obliteration of virtue. Then followed six centuries of the conquering and intermingling Romans; then three centuries of invading and over-riding Goths and Vandals after the fall of Rome; then nearly eight centuries of the Arab domination under the powerful Moorish empire, with intermarriage, concubinage and promiscuous commingling unrestricted. As the result of this racial sewerage through twenty centuries, see the Spanish nature with Inquisition, auto-da-fe, Holland obliteration, bull fighting, Cuban slaughter and oppression. Genealogy and heredity almost make the Spanish race excusable for being what they are, with such mixed blood coursing in their veins and seething into ungovernable cruelty and tyranny.

The study of genealogy is the examination of the skeleton of history. For history is but a record of the doings of men and women of former times. The actors being absent, the stage is empty. All history crystalizes around personality. As Howell has said, "History is the great looking-glass through which we may behold with ancestral eyes not only the various action of ages past and the odd accidents that attend time, but also discern the different humors of men and feel the pulse of former generations." It seems natural then that men should turn their faces toward the past to see what manner of persons their forerunners may have been. It is the same instinct that has uncovered Nineveh and Pompeii and unearthed Cyprus.

But this research may not always prove satisfactory. For as Oliver Wendell Holmes has said, if we trace our lines far enough back we shall be likely to find them waxed at the upper end. Some of them may turn out to be a rope with an ancestor dangling therefrom. Ancestors are very uncertain. There is absolutely no pure stock. Everybody descends from a mixed race. There is a bar sinister in every escutcheon and a scoundrel in every ancestral chart. The Orleans princes are eminent illustrations of this fact. A historian has said of them: It happened curiously enough that a virtuous Duke of Orleans usually had a very dissolute son, and a dissolute Duke, a virtuous son; so that what one squandered, the next heir made up by economy. Philippe, brother of Louis XVI, was tolerably steady; his son, regent of France, was one of the most shameless roudés, gluttons and wine-bibbers that ever lived; his son Louis was a downright devotee and bigot; his son Louis Philippe was not what we would call a moral man, but he was very moral for the France of that day, exceedingly charitable and a most liberal patron of art and literature; his son Louis Philippe Joseph, was that notorious debauchee and pretended democrat who figured in the first years of the French Revolution as "Egalite." The strands of that line were cotton and flax and hemp and wool and hickory bark and carpet rags.

The famous poet Horace, did not take much pride in his ancestry. His father was a Roman slave, who, some years before Horace was born, obtained his freedom. In his satire sixth, first book, he says:—"Everybody has a fling at me because I am a freedman's son." Yet none of the flingers outlived their brief day of obscurity, while the freedman's son is immortal. "You are the first of your line," sneered a patrician opponent of Cicero. He retorted "And you are the last of yours." Who would not rather be first with Cicero than last with Catiline? Hood, in his Cromwell, speaks of Prince Rupert of Prague, headstrong, imprudent, cruel, reckless, desperate and unprincipled. And yet his genealogist says:—"He began to be illustrious many years before his birth and we must look back into history above two thousand years to discover the first rays of his glory. We may consider him very great, being descended from the two most illustrious and ancient houses of Europe, that of England and Palatine of the Rhine." And then the writer goes on to trace back his ancestry to Attila, Charlemagne and so on, down through a succession of Ruperts, Louis and Fredericks. Yet he was the cause of the defeat at Naseby, had his fleet afterwards destroyed in battle by Blake and took refuge in piracy in the West Indies.

There as an old fable of a worn-out tea-kettle that lay in the corner of a shed with some disabled and dismantled locomotives, whom it addressed as follows:—"Well gentlemen and brothers, don't be downhearted; we have played busy and useful parts in our day and may comfort ourselves now in reflecting upon our achievements." "What is that little old tin-whistle talking about over there in the corner?" Said one of the engines. "Who are his brothers?" "Let me tell you" indignantly responded the kettle; that with all your pride, though you won't own me as your brother, I am father and mother to you; for who ever would have heard of a steam engine, if it hadn't been for a tea-kettle?"

And yet one may make too much of his ancestry! Frederick of Saxony went about hunting up his genealogical descent. Having been told that a copy of his pedigree was preserved in Noah's Ark, he neglected his affairs of state to follow up this search till his ministers became disgusted and his court jester reproved his curiosity, saying:—"At present I look upon you as subordinate only to the Deity; but if you search into Noah's ark perhaps you will discover that you and I are cousins, as we all have had our relations there." It is better to look upon this matter with the poet Dryden, when he wrote:—

"When we have done our ancestors no shame,
But served our friends and well secured our fame,
Then should we wish our happy life to close,
And leave no more for fortune to dispose."

Thus the study of our family predecessors should make us ask ourselves if we are worthy of the noblest of them and should lead us to aspirations to inherit their lofty characters and to imitate their worthy lives.

There is something very touching and praiseworthy in the ancestral worship of the Chinese. "At certain times in the year they repair to their burial places, ever accounted most sacred, bearing with them incense, sandal wood and various offerings according to their ability. The poor carry perhaps only a handful of rice or some common fowl; but the rich spread the whole grave over with costly viands offered to the spirits of their forefathers. And after the offering, they feast on what they have brought in a memorial supper. Their household gods are their heavenly ideals, while imagination builds for them palaces and cities surrounded with splendor and magnificence."

I suppose it is owing partly to the fact that in coming to this new country our American ancestors cut themselves off so completely from their native land and ancestral lines that the study of genealogy, broken off at that limit, has not taken such hold upon the popular mind here as in the old country. We have no Burke's Peerage of our own, or titled aristocracy reaching far into the past. And it may be also further owing to the fact of the vast mixture of races among the immigrants and their descendants that interest in family lines has so largely been neglected.

But we are now growing old in a new land. And the subject of ancestry has awaked to renewed life among us. The origin of our liberties with the struggle for independence have drifted far enough into the past to take upon them historical shape. And now after a century of indifference and popular neglect on the part of so many, it would seem as if there had been a resurrection of interest in these partly-lost records and genealogies. This is particularly so as our modern national greatness lifts the Revolution of 1776 into such immense importance.

It is now seen to have been an immortal thing to have stood among the founders and defenders of that freedom of the Colonies which has developed into the constitutional guarantees of the greatest free people of all time. Alas! so many have been aroused too late to the meaning of the American Revolution to the world. Even during the last generation many family records have passed into oblivion. Tombstones have been defaced and monuments overturned. In illustration I may say that a memorial tablet of one of my own ancestors, with its invaluable data in its inscriptions, was unearthed amid the remains of a camp-fire on a Virginia battle field. The participants of the old historic days and armies have faded away. There is no longer opportunity for personal recollections from survivors of the days of battle. Many of us in childhood might have sat at the feet of the old soldiers of Washington and listened to heroic narrations they could have personally uttered. We have begun, if not too late, at least not a moment too early, to save the records and to identify the actors of revolutionary days. The rise of the Society of Colonial wars, Sons of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the Revolution, Colonial Dames and other such associations, has incited the revival of patriotism, and the renewal of the consecration of vows of liberty. And in these organizations, we may see the practical utility of Genealogical and Historical Societies, forming arks for the preservation of sacred relics and records of the days gone by.

Yet there are those upon whose minds the importance of these things has not risen. They look upon the past as only worthy of forgetfulness, while their eyes are bent upon present enthusiasms, or upon future acquisitions. They remind one of the old colored brother who said that those ancient patriarchs were remarkable mainly for their forgetting things, quoting in proof the text that "Abraham forgot Isaac and Isaac forgot Jacob and Jacob forgot Joseph and his brethren." And so they would climb their limbless genealogical trees. Their idea of genealogy is something like that refrain of old Patrick Spence;—

"I saw the new moon, late yestreen, Wi' the auld moon in her arm."

They do not bank much on old moons, if they can see the new moon over their right shoulder.

Let us do what we can to reclaim the records of past days and to preserve the memorials of those whom in too many cases we are unworthy to succeed, though we may not be too unworthy to commemorate their deeds and hallow their precious memories.

SHALL AMERICANS ASSUME BADGES?

Once upon a time individuals and families assumed badges, which were embroidered on the sleeves of their followers. These badges were not to be confounded with their armorial bearings, though in many instances they represented the same device.

Indeed, it is plain enough that badges are more ancient than arms, and that they were used many centuries before the science of heraldry was invented. Ancient tribes and nations had their emblems or cognizances, which they preserved with jealous care; and we at once call to mind the badges of the tribes of Israel, among which the lion of Judah was the most illustrious. We also remember the owl of Athens, the horse-head of Carthage, the eagle of Rome, and the white horse of the Saxons. At the beginning of the Middle Ages nearly every chieftain had his emblem, and no doubt many hours were spent in daubing them on shields or in rudely embroidering them on garments. There is, however, an immense interval between these rough beginnings—which are common to all barbarians—and the elaborate blazonry of a later age. The earliest existing heraldic monument is said to be the tombstone of a Count of Wasserburg, at Ratisbon, in Germany, dated A. D. 1050; but long before that date badges were commonly used, especially in military service.

The badges assumed by Italian nobles were often elaborate and beautiful, and many of them have become historic. King Henry II. is said to have been the first to introduce them into England. A star between the horns of a crescent is seen on the great seal of Richard I., and a golden rose is attributed to Edward I. A castle appears on the great seal of Edward II. The badge of Richard II. was a white hart with a crown around his neck; afterwards he also displayed the sun in his splendor. Richard III. used the white rose in the sun; and at another time the white boar. Queen Elizabeth took a phoenix in flames, and afterwards a falcon, crowned, and holding a sceptre, and standing on a stump of a tree, between two branches of red and white roses; which badge had been given to her mother, Anne Boleyn, by Henry VIII. The present badge of England is a rose, white and red, surmounted by the royal crown; that of Scotland is the thistle; and that of Ireland is the trefoil or shamrock. These three are now represented conjointly as the badge of the United Kingdom.

In the sixteenth century not all learned men bore hereditary arms, but nearly all of them assumed emblems or badges, many of which were of a religious type. Luther, for instance, had a hereditary coat of arms; but he never displayed it, though it may still be seen on the old Luther house at Mansfield. Instead of it he used an original symbolum, which represents a cross resting on a heart which is in turn supported by a full-blown rose. The motto may be translated :

"The Christian's heart doth rest on roses,
Though it beneath the cross reposes."

In a similar way John Calvin used a seal, which we do not suppose to have been armorial, representing a hand offering a heart. The emblems of the churches which he founded—"the burning bush," "the lily among the thorns," and many others—are all of a similar character. Nor should we forget "the beggars' wallet" which the Calvinists of Holland rendered historical in their conflict with Spain.

The study of badges, we know, is an important part in heraldry; but it will be conceded that a badge may be more freely assumed than a coat of arms. Societies of all kinds adopt emblematic seals, and their charters grant them the privilege "the same to break or renew at pleasure." There surely is no law to prevent the assumption of this privilege by individuals. Heraldry occupies an anomalous position in America. Though the interest of the study is recognized by the intelligent, it cannot be doubted that to the majority the whole subject appears foreign, not to say objectionable. We have no heralds' office to keep things in order; and we have no right to appeal to such institutions in other countries for the decision of doubtful questions. There are a few families which are entitled to bear arms by ancient usage, and in such cases there can be no objection to their preservation: but the supply is evidently not equal to the demand, and there are many persons who assume the right to bear arms on no better ground than that it is stated in the books that such arms were once granted in some foreign country to some person bearing the same surname. John Smith, who probably does not know his own grandfather, does not hesitate to assume the arms of John Smith, the founder of Virginia, utterly oblivious of the fact that there are hundreds of different coats-of-arms which have at different times been granted to men named Smith; and that in all probability his own immediate ancestors are to be numbered among the thousands who bore no "coat" at all. If it were a matter of a trade mark the case would, in his judgment be entirely different. No other Smith must steal his trade mark; but he can assume the arms of any or all the other Smiths at his own sweet will.

It is these things that have brought American heraldry into disrepute; and, from what we can learn, the state of affairs is not much better in other countries. The question, therefore, naturally suggests itself, whether the evil could not be cured by the adoption of family emblems or badges. These should not be armorial in form, for what have we to do with shields and lances? If your taste runs in that direction, every book on symbolism will furnish an abundance of moral and religious emblems. Have you been successful in trade? Why not ennoble the trademark? If your descendants are sufficiently distinguished it may become as illustrious as the boluses of the Medici. Possibly you belong to one of the patriotic societies which are now so flourishing. In that case you can easily find, in the history of the war in which your forefathers participated, some incident which deserves to be pleasantly remembered by your descendants. Whatever the subject which you may choose, let there be no pretence about it—no lions rampant or eagles displayed. Consult a first-class artist, and he will have no difficulty in producing a suitable design. You can then put it on your book-plate, your stationery, your silver, and, if you please, on your carriage; but do not put it on a shield unless it is a genuine coat-of-arms. If your children preserve and appreciate the engraving, they will probably derive more real satisfaction from it than if it were the device of some half-mythical mediæval robber.

To prevent confusion, if our suggestion should ever become popular, it might be desirable to keep a record of family emblems or badges. In this respect our State Historical Societies could do excellent service. It would be no more difficult for them to enter these badges in a book, and thus to prevent duplication, than for a Masonic Lodge to keep a record of the marks adopted by its members. The whole subject is, of course, in nubibus, but we think it furnishes suggestions which are worthy of serious consideration.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF HAMILTON STOW.

By HENRY GARLICK, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Hamilton Stow was born in Windsor, Broome County, New York, August 10, 1806. He was the third son of Daniel and Louise (Hickox) Stow. His grandfather was Major Joshua Stow, of Revolutionary fame. He was twice married; first, on March 4, 1829, to Betsy D. Munsell, who lived but a few years, and, secondly, June 2, 1836 to Sallie Munsell Thatcher. He received such education as the schools at that time afforded, and after leaving school, at an early age, engaged in farming until 1831, with the exception of two years spent in lumbering down the Susquehanna and Delaware Rivers. In 1832 he went to Olean, New York, where he remained until 1839, carrying on the lumber and grocery business. During the latter part of 1839 he set out as one of the "pioneers" for Western Pennsylvania. After reaching his destination, he located in Venango, County, and commenced at once the erection of saw-mills, and again embarked in the lumber business. His partners were the Hon. Wm. Wheeler and Mr. Henry Dusenberry, both now deceased.

All the lumber at that time was rafted down the rivers, and the firm of H. Stow & Co. was well known from the headwaters of the Allegheny to the Falls of the Ohio. In all his business dealings and relations his integrity was never impeached; of him it was justly said "his word was as good as his bond." Settling in a new country, with all its disadvantages, he never lost sight of the welfare of the many in his employ; his interest in their welfare, his wide benevolence and kindness, especially in times of trouble and distress, endeared him to all. He resided in Venango County until 1865, closely associated with its growth, and a hearty supporter of all its enterprises. Mr. Stow was earnestly devoted to the welfare of his Country. When the War of the Rebellion broke out he gave his son George, who went as a Lieutenant in Company A of the 83d Regular Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was largely instrumental in procuring men for this company, riding over the country, persuading the young men to enlist. He not only took care of the families thus deprived of their means of support, but cancelled all accounts due him, from those who had enlisted, also giving largely of his means to equip the company. But it was in his noble Christian character that Mr. Stow shone brightly forth.

Uniting with the Presbyterian church at an early age, he was always devoted to the cause of his Master, ably seconded in everything by his faithful wife. Both by precept and example, he sought to adorn the Gospel he professed and the influence he exerted for all that was true, noble, and good left its impression upon each community in which he lived. He organized the first Sunday-school in Venango County and was for many years its Superintendent. Through his generosity and untiring efforts the Presbyterian church was built at Tionesta, Pennsylvania, he being its Presiding Elder until his removal to Cincinnati in 1865.

To his wife and himself the Protestant Episcopal Parish of Emmanuel, Cincinnati, chiefly owes its church building. Soon after Mrs. Stow's death he again showed his christian generosity by presenting a Rectory to the parish as a memorial to her.

He died April 19th, 1894 at his residence, 653 Eastern Avenue Cincinnati, Ohio, and was buried in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Three only of his eight children survive him, viz: Mr. H. Hobert Stow, of Toledo, Ohio, Mr. Edgar D. Stow, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Henry Garlick, of Cincinnati.

O Lord, to Whom the spirits live
 Of all the faithful passed away,
 Unto their path that brightness give
 Which shineth to the perfect day
 Light eternal, Jesu blest,
 Shine on them, and grant them rest.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.

Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think will be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service in any of the wars of our country (which may be of material benefit to those who desire to establish their eligibility for membership in the various patriotic societies), other service under the U. S. government, the holding of other offices, graduation from colleges or professional schools, occupations, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one Christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initials should be used when the full names are known.

There are many descendants of the Tregoes in Ohio. President McKinley, through his mother, is a Trego descendant. The book will be published by Munsell & Sons of Albany, N. Y. and will contain a portrait of "Mother McKinley."

BOOK NOTICES.

[It is suggested that persons sending books for notice state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage, or charges, when sent by mail or express.]

Freeman Genealogy, in three parts, viz: I. Memorial of Edmund Freeman of Sandwich, and his Descendants: II. Memorial of Samuel Freeman of Watertown, and his Descendants: III. Notes, Historical and Genealogical of families of the name of Freeman, distinct from Parts I and II, or whose connection is not clearly ascertained * * * * *
Private Edition. Boston: Franklin Press: Rand, Avery and Company. 1875. 800. paper, pp. 456.

The above genealogy of the Freeman families of America was the work of Rev. Frederick Freeman, of Sandwich, Mass., but his name does not appear upon the title page. It was issued in three separate parts, in paper covers, and paged consecutively from the first to the last. Its arrangement is a modification of the Register plan. The work contains much historical matter relating to Freeman and allied families, but it is greatly to be regretted that there is no index to the work, to render such information of easier access to those who may desire to look for it.

The Scotch Ancestors of William McKinley, President of the United States.

Compiled by Edward A. Claypool, a Chicago Genealogist. Chicago, U. S. A. 1897. 12 mo. paper. pp. 46. Price 25 cts.

This little pamphlet traces the line of descent of President McKinley from Duncan MacDuff, Maomor of Fife (b. Circa A. D. 1000; Killed Macbeth Dec. 5, 1056), who was immortalized in the Shakspeareian play of Macbeth in the familiar lines :

" Lay on Macduff !
And damn'd be him that first cries ' Hold, enough ! "

The President is figured out as 32 removes from the bloody Macduff, and this inheritance of such belligerent blood, together with several considerable additions from intervening warlike ancestors, no doubt accounts for the penchant of the chief magistrate for bellicose pursuits. We will say, in closing, that the booklet is well worth the price asked for it.

The History and Genealogy of the Knowltons of England and America

By the Rev. Charles Henry Wright Stocking, D. D. Principal of Freehold, N. J., Ladies' Seminary * * * * New York The Knickerbocker Press 1897 8 vo. cloth, pp. xii + 597. Price $6.00; express charges anywhere in the U. S., 42 cts.

This large and beautiful book commences with a chapter on the Knowlton family in England, tracing it from Richard of Kent, b. 1553, to Miss Sarah Knowlton, of Darley Dale, England, who died in 1845, aged nearly 79 years, and with whom the English Knowltons virtually disappear. The second chapter takes up the Knowltons in New England, descendants of Captain William who sailed from London for Nova Scotia about 1632-4, and died shortly before the vessel landed at its destination. The widow and children remained in Nova Scotia but a short time and then proceeded to Ipswich, Mass., where the eldest son John became a resident in 1639. The family increased and became considerably scattered over the New England Colonies. Many of its members were active participants in the various affairs of the country; held offices of trust and participated in its various wars until the period of the Revolution, when many took up arms in defense of their country and a few could not see their way clear to do so and were therefore classed as loyalists and were constrained to withdraw from the country and take up their abode in Canada. These were the founders of the Canada Knowltons, to whom a part of a chapter is devoted. Some of their descendants, it seems, returned to the States and became American Knowltons. The family is now quite numerous and is widely spread over the whole extent of our country. The book is nicely gotten up, has many fine portraits, views of residences and other illustrations. The many persons of the name and family in the Western states should avail themselves of the opportunity, before it is too late, of procuring a copy of this most valuable work. It should also find a place in every large public library.

The Descendants of Richard Sares (Sears) of Yarmouth, Mass., 1638-1888.

With an Appendix containing some notices of other families by the name of Sares. By Samuel P. May, Mem. N. E. Hist. Gen. Society. Albany, N. Y.: Joel Munsell's Sons, Publishers. 1890. 8 vo. cloth, pp. xii + 665.

This book starts out with a chapter on the English Ancestry of the Sears family of America and gives many items of interest collected from various public records there, and from other sources; but the connection of the American immigrant Richard with the family in England could not be established. His name first appears upon the records of Plymouth Colony, March 25, 1633; in Marblehead, Massachusetts Colony, Jan. 1, 1637-8, and in 1639 crossed over to Cape Cod with a party and settled upon a tract of land which is now Yarmouth, Mass. He had two sons and one daughter. From the former are descended most of those bearing the name of Sears now living in America, several of whom have been quite noted in the history of our country. In the appendix appear other families of the name, who could not be identified with the Richard Sears family. The Book is arranged upon the Register plan, is well indexed, and ranks with the best. There are many of the name and family located in the Old Northwest, and we would advise all who have not already done so to procure a copy of this book without delay, as there are only a few more left.

W. G. PENGELLY, Treasurer.

The undersigned, a committee to audit the accounts of the Treasurer for the year ending Jan. 7, 1899, would respectfully report that they have carefully examined the same and find the approved vouchers in the hands of the Treasurer to agree with the disbursements, as shown in the report submitted herewith.

(Signed) SAMUEL CARROLL DERBY,
(Signed) DANIEL HOSMER GARD.

January 27. Called meeting of the Society. The Society met at the parlor of the Y. M. C. A. building, Columbus, Ohio; the following named members being present: Rev. Dr. A. A. E. Taylor, Professors Derby and Cole, Dr. J. T. Mills, Messrs. Allen, Bucher, Colton, Gorman, Pengelly, Ward, H. W. Whayman, (honorary member) Mrs. Rath-Merrill, Misses Tilton and Herrick and Dr. Herrick.

President Taylor occupied the chair.

Prof. Derby, of the committee to audit the Treasurer's report, reported that the committee had carefully compared said report with the vouchers and found it correct, and recommended its approval by the Society. On motion, the report was then approved and ordered to be printed in THE QUARTERLY.

By request of the Society, the Treasurer made a statement of the present financial condition of the Society; which elicited considerable discussion.

Major H. P. Ward and Professor S. C. Derby then offered their resignations as members of the Publication Committee; which, on motion, were accepted.

Mr. Whayman then offered the following amendment to the By-Laws, which on motion was adopted.

Publication Committee. Article XI. It shall be the duty of the publication committee to establish and maintain a publication fund, to provide for the publication of THE QUARTERLY, to serve as a board of editors and to determine the cost of the publication of any genealogical or biographical articles, and the advertising therein.

Mr. Colton moved that the Society proceed to elect the Publication Committee by ballot. The following nominations were made for members of the committee: Mr. Horace W. Whayman, (honorary member) Professor Derby, Mr. Walter R. Colton and Miss May M. Scott. Prof. Derby declined nomination and motion was then made and carried that the Secretary cast the ballot of the Society for Messrs Whayman and Colton and Miss Scott as members of that committee.

The following notice of proposed changes in the Constitution was introduced, which, under the rules, must lie over for action at the next stated meeting of the Society,—in April.

To the Executive Committee of The Old "Northwest" Genealogical Society:

Notice is hereby given that we, the undersigned members of the Society, do intend to recommend the adoption of the annexed changes to Constitution and By-Laws, at the next quarterly meeting.

To re-number and add to the Articles in the Constitution and By-Laws, as may be necessary, in making the following additions and amendments.

To amend Article XI of the Constitution:—By erasing the word 'located' and inserting in place thereof the words "now or formerly resident" so as to make the amended Article read as follows:

ARTICLE XI.

The object of the Society shall be to collect, preserve and disseminate the local and general history of the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, and the genealogy of families now or formerly resident therein.

To amend Article VII :—By adding (after the word 'fee' on the second line, and before the word 'shall' also on the second line), the words "or the donation of books, pamphlets or engravings, of the value of fifty dollars, which shall have been accepted by the Executive committee," so as to make the amended Article read as follows:

ARTICLE VII.

The payment of twenty-five dollars in addition to the admission fee, or the donation of books, pamphlets or engravings, of the value of fifty dollars, which shall have been accepted by the Executive Committee, shall constitute any resident, associate or corresponding member, a life member of the Society; life members shall be free from assessments, and entitled to all rights and privileges of resident members. All moneys received for life membership shall be invested from time to time by the Treasurer, with the approval of the Executive Committee, and shall be called the life fund; the income thereof, only, shall be used for current expenditures, but the principal shall remain intact.

To amend Article IX:—By inserting the words "foregoing States, and for" after the word 'of' and before the word 'such' on the fourth line, so as to make the amended Article read as follows:

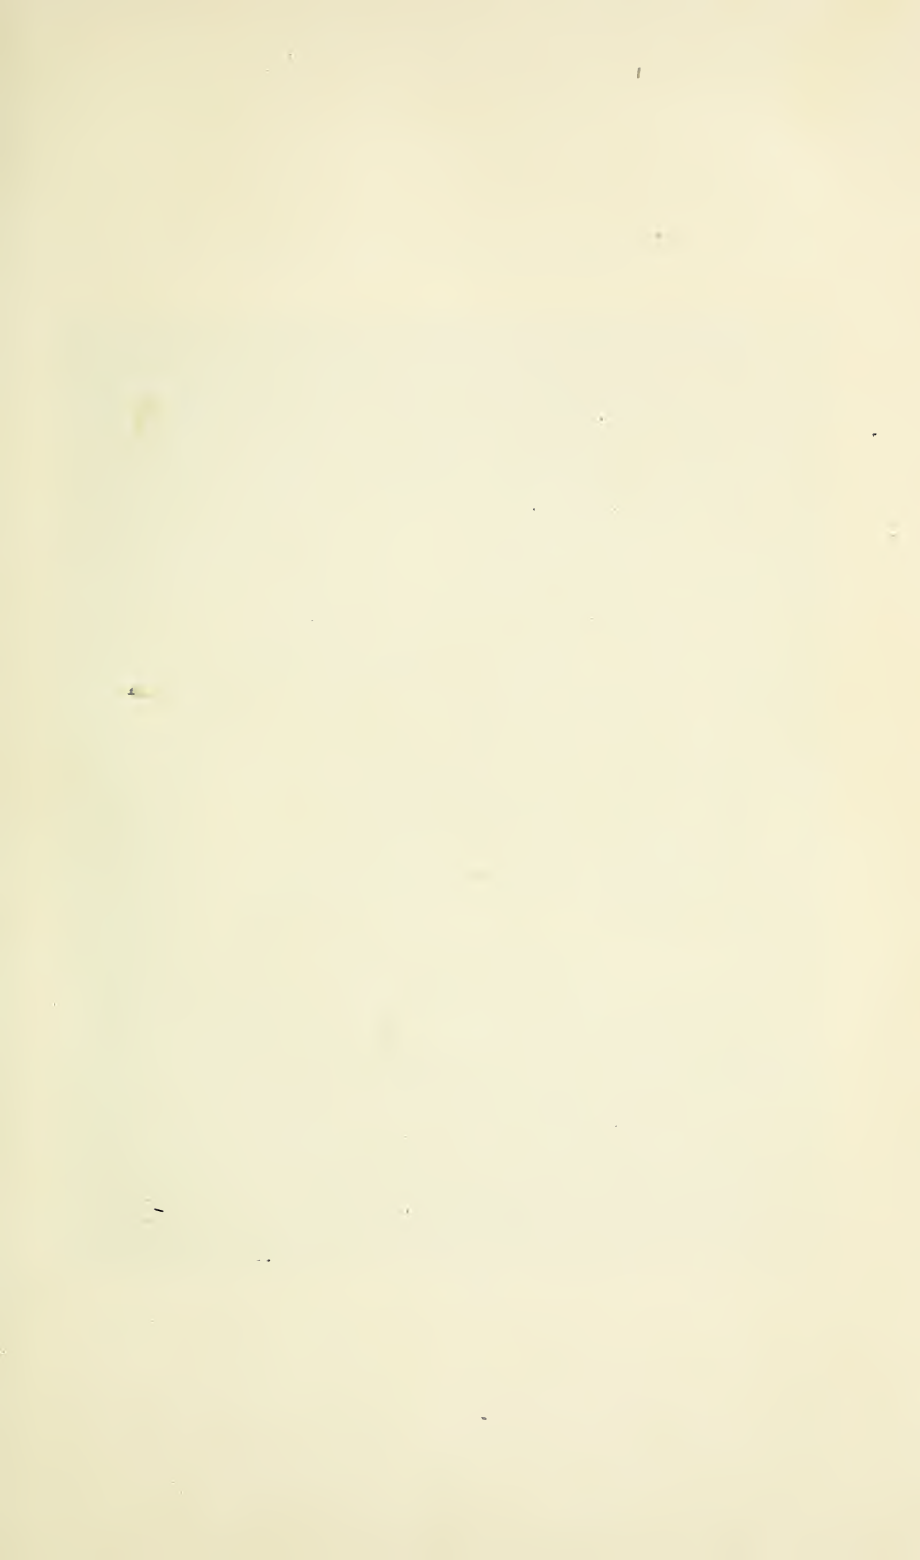

ARTICLE IX.

The officers of the Society shall be a president, five vice-presidents,—one each for the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin; one honorary vice-president for each of the foregoing States, and for such other States as the Society may determine; a Secretary, a Librarian, a Historian, and such other officers as the Society may determine. They shall all hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected.

Signed: Horace W. Whayman, (honorary member) H. P. Ward, W. R. Colton, Wm. B. Lawrence, K. D. Wood, W. G. Pengelly, Edward A. Gorman, Geo. W. Bright, F. B. Pearson, Dave Parkinson, Wilfred O. Frohock, Edward C. Mills, Melville C. Johnston, Mary E. Rath-Merrill, V. D. Allen.

On motion, the President and Treasurer were directed to give a note of the Society for $200.00, payable in ninety days, to the Champlin Printing Company, in payment on amount due for printing THE QUARTERLY.

On motion, the Society then adjourned.

SIR THOMAS PENGELLY, KT.

THE "OLD NORTHWEST"
GENEALOGICAL QUARTERLY.

JULY, 1899.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF SIR THOMAS PENGELLY.

By Surgeon Captain W. W. WEBB.

1675-1730, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, descended from a west of England family, was son of Thomas Pengelly by his wife Rachel, the eldest daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel Jeremy Baines. He was probably born at his father's house "next door to the 2 twins in Moorefields," and was baptized in Moorefields on 16 May, 1675.

His father was an opulent London merchant who traded to Smyrna, Aleppo, and the Indies as early as 1642, and possessed considerable property at the east-end, Finchley, and at Cheshunt in Hertfordshire.

"At his house at Churchgate, Cheshunt, he provided a retreat for the ex-Protector Richard Cromwell on his return to England in 1683.

After his host's death, Richard Cromwell under the disguised names of "Mr. Clarke" and "The Gentleman" continued to reside at Cheshunt with Pengelly's widow and son, and he died there on 12 July, 1712, in the younger Pengelly's arms.

The intimacy between Richard Cromwell and the Pengelly family led to the fabrication of a scurrilous and lying report that the younger Pengelly was Richard's natural son."

Thomas in youth closely applied himself to study, and showed much aptitude for classics.

In December, 1692, he was admitted into the Inner Temple; was called to the bar in November, 1700, and in 1710 was made a bencher of the Inn.

His practice grew rapidly. He was for many years counsel to Charles Seymour, "the proud" Duke of Somerset, and to Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough.

In 1705-6 he was one of the counsel retained by Richard Cromwell in the suit "instituted against his daughters to obtain possession of Hursley Manor, in which he had a life interest under the will of his son Oliver. Pengelly obtained a decision in his client's favor. He was created serjeant-at-law on 12 May, 1710, was knighted on 1 May, 1719, and on 24 June, of the same year, on the death of Sir Thomas Powis was appointed king's prime serjeant.

In January and February 1722, as king's serjeant with the other law officers of the crown, he had the conduct of the indictment of Christopher Layer and others before the committee of the House of Commons on a charge of high treason.

He was elected member of Parliament for Cockermouth in Cumberland, chiefly through the interest of the Duke of Somerset, and the Marquis of Wharton, in 1717, and in 1722. In May, 1725, he was one of the managers of the impeachment of the Earl of Macclesfield, and on the tenth day of the earl's trial replied to all the legal points raised for the defence. Pengelly argued that the sale of the lucrative offices of the Court of Chancery—the chief offense with which the earl was charged—violated statute law, and that the prisoner had in an illegal and arbitrary manner extended the power and authority of the lord chancellor and of the Court of Chancery beyond their lawful and just bounds.

Pengelly's reputation as a counsel was excelled by none in his generation. He spoke simply yet convincingly and spared himself no pains in mastering his briefs. He often placed his services gratuitously at the disposal of poor suitors.

On the 16 Oct., 1726, he was appointed Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, in succession to Sir Geoffrey Gilbert.

Besides sitting at the Guildhall and at Westminster, he presided at many provincial assizes. The qualities that had characterized his career at the bar, distinguished his conduct on the bench. Few judges more signally commanded public confidence.

Richard Steele, who resented a judgment which deprived him of the license for Drury Lane Theatre, found no more powerful means of attacking him than by quibbling upon his surname—as "Pen" is the Welsh word for head, "Guelt" is the Dutch for money, which taken with the English syllable "Ly" signifies one who turns his head to lie for money."

In 1730, while presiding at the Lent assizes at Taunton, Pengelly was attacked by goal fever to which he succumbed at Blandford in Dorset on 14 April. He was buried in the Inner Temple vault in the Temple Church, on 29 April.

A few years before his death he built the house which has long been known as Pengelly at Cheshunt, Hertfordshire, on the site of the old mansion-house, which had belonged to his father. He was unmarried. By his will which was written by his own hand, and dated 16 March, 1727, and by two codicils, he directed 2800 pounds to be applied to the discharge of poor prisoners for debt lying in the goals of the towns in which he had presided as judge on the western circuit, or in London.

He bequeathed to his sole executor, John Webb, Esq., of the Inner Temple, the whole of his estates in Hampshire and Hertfordshire, as well as his personal property including his books and manuscripts.

He left bequests to the Duchess of Marlborough and to the Duke of Somerset.

His portrait in his robes as lord chief baron, three quarter length painted by G. Worsdale is now in the possession of Mr. F. E. Webb, of 113 Maida Vale, London, the present representative of his heir. (A reproduction of this portrait appears as the frontispiece of this issue of THE QUARTERLY.)

A second portrait, also in his official robes was painted by the same artist, it was engraved by Faber.

A large mass of his papers—his correspondents included the chief public men of his time,—was presented to the British Museum by the Rev. John Webb, M. A., F. S. A., rector of Tretire, about 1860. Some of his legal papers are also in the British Museum. Two vols. of his "Legal Common Place Book" were presented to the Library of the Inner Temple by the Rev. Prebendary T. W. Webb, M. A., of Hardwick.

A large number of his books and manuscripts are now preserved at Odstock, Netley Abbey Hants.

MRS. MARION AUGUSTA BUCKINGHAM.

By Miss M. JOSEPHINE TILTON, Historian of the Society.

Mrs. Marion Augusta Buckingham, recently elected a member of our Society, was born October 15, 1820, at Peru, Mass., the third daughter of Rev. Roswell and Elizabeth Fitch (Greene) Hawkes. Her mother was a neice of President Fitch of Williams College.

Rev. Hawkes believing in the higher education of women, gave up his ministry to co-operate with Mary Lyon to found Mt. Holyoke Seminary (now College). His daughter, Marion, was graduated, I think in 1841. The year following she was appointed assistant teacher in the Putnam Female Seminary, Zanesville, Ohio, and filled the position so acceptably that the next year she was urged to take sole charge of the school, and taught for two years as principal. Here she met Gen. C. P. Buckingham (a sketch of his life appeared in the January (1899) number of our Quarterly), to whom she was married in August 26, 1845, the wedding taking place at Mt. Holyoke Seminary. It seemed very appropriate and fitting that their marriage should take place from the school where she was graduated—founded by her father and which received its name from an ancestor of her husband—Elizur Holyoke—who married Mary Pyncheon, youngest daughter of Hon. William Pyncheon, who came to this country with Gov. Winthrop in 1630.

Their home was in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, then at Irvington-on-the Hudson, then for a number of years in Chicago where Mrs. Buckingham was not only socially prominent but was interested and active in many charities. After the death of her husband, which occurred at their home in Chicago, in 1888, she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sloane, at Hillsboro, Ohio.

She died very suddenly at the Great Southern Hotel, Columbus, March 23, 1899, in the 79th year of her age. Personally Mrs. Buckingham was a most beautiful woman, and equally lovely in character, possessing in an unusual degree the love and admiration of all who knew her, this power of attraction she retained even in her latest years.

CO-OPERATIVE GENEALOGY.*

By HORACE W. WHAYMAN, F. R. S. A, I. (Hon. Member), and JOSEPH H. ROWE, M. B.

EVIDENCES OF THE NAME, ARMS AND DESCENT OF PENGELLY.

In Bishop Stapledon's Episc. Register there occurs, page 528, Oliver de Pengelli ordained ad Primam Tonsurem at S. Breockes 1319-20 Jan.

Probably one of the Pengelleys of S. Breockes who had an oratory licensed to them some eighty years later.

A Galfridus de Pengelli is mentioned Jan. 1319-20.

In Drake and Vivian's Herald's Visitation of Cornwall will be found the Pengelly coat of arms— It occurs amongst the quarterings of the famous Grenville family (Sir Richard of the "Revenge" and Sir Bevil the Loyalist Cavalier) on their pew in Lan-teglos Church.

It is a shield, square in this example, with a red chevron (chevron gules) with a Gryphon or Griffin in each upper corner and a single larger Gryphon in the lowest segment of the shield, the Gryphon being red on a field of gold.

The chevron is a very ancient ordinary and the less it is charged with other figures the more ancient and honorable it appears.

The shield preceding the Pengelley one is that of the Udey family, rather denoting the close union of the Udeys and Pengelleys and indicating the Linkinghorne Pengelleys.

The representation here given is tricked direct from the Grenville quarterings in the Harl: M. S. No. 1164 Brit: Mus: London, England.

Carew the historian says that "the most Cornish gentleman can better vaunt of their pedigree than of their livelihood, for that they derive from great antiquity, and I make question whether any shire in England, of but equal quantity, can muster a like number of fair coat armours, whereas this declineth to the mean," and Lieut. Col. Vivian and Dr. Drake in their edition of the visitation of Cornwall say that this county may be considered pre-eminent in the antiquity of its family Heraldry, since it was admitted in Court, during the memorable Scrope and Grosvenor controversy, that the same Arms, (azure a bend or), had remained in the family of Carminow from the time of King Arthur!" A dispute as to lands in Pengelly is also noted in Henry the Fourth's reign between the Beeres and Hoares of Trenouth.

Particulars of this may be found in No. 8 Ped: Fin (feet of fines.)

EVIDENCES OF THE NAME, ARMS AND DESCENT OF ACLAND.

This is on the face of it a word which points to the Saxon tongue for its derivation, and one is ready to take Bannister's definition of ac=oak and land=county or district, as a perfectly justifiable one.

This of course points to a territorial connection of the first owners of the name.

The only references to this name in the Episcopal Registers are Vincent de Ackelane deacon instituted to Molland 29, Oct. 1279 by the Abbot of Hartland.

Thomas Akkelane occurs as canon of Torre. Wm. de Hakkelane occurs as a witness at Bishops Tawton.

Thomas Galfridus de Hockeland ordained a deacon at the presentation of Michael de Wynkelegh 29 March, 1309.

In the visitation of the County of Devon in the year 1620 edited by Frederic Thomas Colby B. D. F. S. A. will be found four pedigrees of this ancient English family, beginning with Baldwin Eccelin down to John, Baldwin and Thomas Aclande A. D. 1620.

HAVE AMERICANS ANY RIGHT TO COATS-OF-ARMS?

A PLAIN EXPLANATION OF THE STANDING OF AMERICAN CLAIMANTS, AND A COMPARISON WITH THE CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND.

SOME POINTS NOT GENERALLY KNOWN ABOUT COAT-ARMOR.

By NEW ENGLANDER.

Americans are no less prone than the subjects of royalty to display armorial bearings, and much has been said and written regarding the authenticity of these evidences of gentle birth claimed by our republican families.

There is in Boston at present a clique of amateur heralds, and tuft-hunters, who assume to pass judgment on the validity of family arms, and to deliver opinions upon heraldic tombstones and ancient seals; and according to these self-sufficient judges those entitled to bear arms are a very small number and found exclusively among our wealthiest people, while the great majority of shields shown upon the old gravestones are viewed as spurious by these savants. As nearly everyone is totally ignorant of the subject, their rulings have been accepted in many cases, and much injustice has been done, for it is a serious thing to brand as an impostor (even in his claim to arms) an early settler of the country, or it may be his son, who erected the monument to his memory.

To place the matter upon a strictly legal basis, according to the present laws of England regarding arms, not one of the coats sanctioned by any heraldic-committee of an American historical or antiquarian society is borne by right. It is true a grant of arms always carried with it the use to all the male line descendants of the grantee, but the heraldic college must have upon record the descent from such grantee before those arms can be lawfully displayed. To record such descent a fee is charged, and neglect for a few generations makes it somewhat troublesome to produce satisfactory evidence of the derivation. None of our American families, who have been for several generations upon this continent have recorded any pedigrees in the college-of-arms, and therefore have no established right to armorial distinction, and our American heralds simply make themselves ridiculous by attempts to lend an air of authority to the assumption in certain quarters and to frown down the use in others.

This being the exact legal position as regarding claimants in America, descended from English ancestry, it may be as well, in order that a clear understanding of the conditions may be arrived at, to mention that the vast majority of arms used in England today are likewise without the sanction of the heraldic college.

Not to allude to the horde of pirated arms there, which the law makes no attempt to suppress, there are an immense number of families of acknowledged gentility who are bearing the coat-armor which has descended to them from sire to son, and upon the genuineness of which they have no doubts, nor has anyone, yet which in the absence of a record at the college they should be debarred from using. These gentlemen have all the requisites to entitle them to bear arms, and upon application a new grant would at once be made to any of them, but they naturally prefer the ensign that has the prestige of antiquity to any newly born honors.

The failure to record pedigrees arises from many causes, and there are several classes of persons, who would have a valid claim but for this omission. First there are those who are representatives of proud old houses which ante-date the heraldic-college itself, and often as well the time when the crown first assumed control in armorial matters. It was not until the fifteenth century that this was vested in the sovereign. Their ancestors haughtily declined to entertain the heralds when the visitations were instituted and felt that it was in the nature of an insult to require any credentials as to a right they had enjoyed for generations undisputed. Second, are those families of later grantees, who never filed any record after the original grant was made by the college, being quite content to receive in the confident knowledge of their equity, the bearings as they were handed down from generation to generation. Third, are to be mentioned those descendants of younger sons, who after some generations of struggling poverty, have come to affluence. It is often a difficult matter to trace younger branches in England—they trouble not the records with the story of their offspring and, designedly in many cases, the evidence has been suppressed. And the fourth group will include that numerous class who care so little for the authority of the college that they will not pay the fees to have their rights established there.

It has long been a scandal in England that the officers of the college-of-arms were very ready upon the payment of their charges to give their sanction to a pedigree upon very imperfect evidence and upon no evidence whatever, provided the claimant had sufficient standing of a social and other nature to entitle him in their judgment to be a bearer of arms. Worse than this, for while many spurious pedigrees have their endorsement, others, it is charged, have been manufactured outright by these very guardians of the court of chivalry. It is true that in the reign of Elizabeth a king-of-arms was fined and imprisoned for this offense, but his successors of later days go unscathed. We do not need to seek far for the reasons for these frauds, for the whole scheme of the college invites them. The salaries of the officers of arms, even kings-of-arms, are ridiculously small, so that their chief, almost their only sources of revenue, are these commissions from persons who are seeking to establish descent from armigerous families, and it is very well understood that the safe way to obtain satisfactory evidence is to retain one of the officers of the college to do the work. It is not to be wondered at that self-respecting people refrain from applying to this establishment for the brand of authenticity upon their family ensigns.

This being the condition of things in England, it cannot be a very serious matter for an American to lay claim to the coat-of-arms he believes his ancestors to have borne. Such marks of gentility have no recognition under our form of government, and are nothing but a harmless exhibition of vanity or sentiment at the most. It is useless to assert that arms-bearing is either un-American or un-republican, for the foremost leaders of the revolution and the earliest presidents of the nation used coats-of-arms—Washington and Adams and Hancock, among the rest. Since a grant of arms is supposed forever to confer upon the lineal male descendants of the grantee the right to display them, an American who can trace in an unbroken line to a bearer in England three hundred years ago, as many can, may very properly decide that he will use such arms; and his neighbor who may be unable to find his lineage beyond the American immigrant of the seventeenth century, with equal propriety may use the coat which he is so fortunate as to point out upon the gravestone of that ancestor or impressed in the wax of an old seal, preserved through two centuries. There exists an old roll of arms prepared at the beginning of the last century by one Gore, a carriage painter of Boston, which embraces about a hundred families who were among his customers. This catalogue was formerly considered reliable by our historical societies, but, with strange inconsistency, is now questioned by them.* It is undoubtedly as much entitled to consideration as many records which are accepted as of value in England. "The Union of Honour, by James York, blacksmith, containing the Nobility of England and the Gentry of Lincolnshire in the year 1640" is a work from which many of the English gentry have shown the standing of their ancestors, and Americans can with perfect fitness put forward the roll of our carriage painter beside that of their blacksmith, and those whose arms are found in the Gore list will stoutly maintain their claim to them. If others with less to guide them are over ready to assume, because of a repetition of Christian names or some vague tradition, or other equally trifling indication that their ancestor, who came from a certain English county, was a descendant of some knight or armiger there, there is no occasion for our historical societies, or their committees, to hold them up to contempt, for in many cases they are more likely right in their conjecture than the critics.

It is perfectly well known that a large part of the early New England settlers were men of substance and education, and descendants of the gentry at home. Most of the bearings made use of in America are ancient arms, dating back in many cases to the time of the origin of the family name itself, and there are many families which the evidence strongly indicates sprang from a single progenitor. The probabilities in such cases are in the direction of the descendants, one and all, having a claim to such arms. In fact the rapid increase in some families in ten or more generations makes it plain to anyone that there must be vast numbers of people, who, without being aware of it, should rightly have been gentlemen of coat-armor; and it must be equally plain that not all of these, or even a majority, are to be found among the wealthy or so called, first families. Indeed experience proves that it is chiefly in the ranks of our good everyday people that are to be discovered those who have preserved their lineage and history, and can show evidence of descent from an armigerous ancestor.

*The Gore Roll of Arms had also the endorsement of the "Heraldic Journal," W. H. Whitmore, A. C. Goodell, A. T. Perkins and W. S. Appleton, committee on publication: "It constitutes a very valuable addition to the sources of our information, and research seems to confirm its correctness."

On the other hand the attempts of our soi-disant aristocrats to set up exclusive armorial rights have not been over successful in the past. Twenty or thirty years ago there existed in New York city an institution with the pretentious title of "American College of Heraldry and Genealogical Registry" which maintained rooms and a library in the fashionable quarter and flourished for several years. It is not known how many grants of arms were made from this source, but nothing on earth could be more absurd than the idea of a society of this character, in a republic, attempting to distribute patents of gentility.

The present course of some of our historical societies is, too, wholly inconsistent, and one of these not many years ago, through its publication, was putting forth as genuine many coats-of-arms which a little investigation will show any one were unwarrantable assumptions; and after having erred so seriously in one direction it seems needless now that it should pursue the opposite course with equal extravagance. But to whatever lengths our local societies now go, they can never stem the current of the armorial craze. It has possessed the people for many generations and shows no signs of abatement.

EDITORIAL.

THE library of the Society has of late received some very important accessions through donations by members and authors of books, who send them for notice in THE QUARTERLY. The latter class demonstrate their appreciation of the fair treatment accorded them by the increased number of books furnished for notice in our pages. The rapid growth of the collection of books and pamphlets has created a necessity for a more commodious place to keep them, and one of our members, Dr. E. W. Woodruff, appreciating the situation, most generously came to the rescue and tendered the free use of the reception room of his office for the accommodation of the library. Another member, Professor Cole, furnished a book case, and now the books are quite comfortably and conveniently domiciled at No. 255 West Fifth Ave., Columbus, Ohio. The place is quite accessible, being on the ground floor, the second door east of Neil Ave., where street cars pass frequently. Members can consult the library at the above place at all hours of the day, and they will find a table and chairs at their disposal, together with facilities for taking notes.

THIS Society has been favored by the Société de Numismatique et d'Archéologie de Montréal with a copy of one of its medals, which is a most artistic specimen of medallic art. Upon the obverse is a portrait bust of H. I. Tiffin, inaugurator of the Civic Library, and upon the reverse is the Chateau de Ramezay, which is the home of that flourishing society.

THE annual dues of this Society are much less than are those of any similar organization which pretends to render any equivalent in the shape of a publication; in fact, they are inadequate to pay the cost of printing THE QUARTERLY and meet the other necessary expenses. The dues should be paid in January each year, but many members have neglected to pay—probably each one thinking that all the rest would pay promptly, and a little matter of two dollars would make no difference. But a large number of such cases make quite a sum, and every dollar of it is now needed to pay indebtedness which would not have been incurred had all dues been paid promptly. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

There is a poem on the death of these three Priests, four stanzas of which are given in the 'Memoirs,' p. 208, not without beauty.

It appears in Dugd. Vis. Yorke 1666 that Arthur Langley of Raythorp, then aged 32 mar. Sarah, dau. of William Garlicke of Dinting.

In Wolley's Collections, Vol II (No. 6668) p. 135, is a very remarkable will of Nicholas Garlicke of Thornsett, Gent., who had been much employed by Thomas, Duke of Norfolk and Lord Thomas his son. It is dated 6 Elizabeth. He speaks of a disobedient dau. Margaret, mar. to Wm. Needham, M. S. No. 268 Familiae Minorum Gentium Hunter.

We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service of any of the wars of our country (which may be of material benefit to those who desire to establish their eligibility for membership in the various patriotic societies) other service under the U. S. government, the holding of other offices, graduation from colleges or professional schools, occupations, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one Christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initial should be used when the full names are known.

The Diary of Col. Israel Angell, of the Rhode Island Continental line. With Annotations by Edward Field, explanatory of the text, and giving the Military History of the persons mentioned. Map and two photos.

Col. Angell served nearly the whole period of the Revolution and was engaged in the most important battles of the war. The diary begins with August 20, 1778, and ends April 3, 1781, a few days after the close of his service in the army, though the entries are not continuous. Among the subjects covered are the battle of Rhode Island, life and events in garrison at Warren and Bristol, camp life at Barber's Heights, the evacuation of Newport by the British and its occupancy by the American forces, the march of the army to the westward, the subsequent happenings in northern New Jersey and West Point, with Arnold's treason. The work will form an octavo volume, and will be illustrated with a reproduction of a contemporary map of Rhode Island, the flag of Col. Angell's regiment, the Second Rhode Island, now photographed for the first time, and a fac-simile of a page of the diary. The edition will be limited to 300 copies; an early application is therefore necessary. Price, $2.00 delivered. Preston & Rounds Co., Providence, R. I.

BOOK NOTICES.

[It is suggested that persons sending books for notice state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage, or charges, when sent by mail or express.]

Biographical Sketch of Samuel Rowell and Notices of some of his Descendants with a Genealogy for seven generations, 1754-1898 By Rowland Rowell Manchester, N. H. Manchester, N. H. Printed by William E. Moore. 1898. 8vo. cloth, pp. 216. Price, $2.50, postage prepaid.

The subject of this book was born at Chester, N. H., in 1754, and was a descendant, in the fifth generation, of Thomas Rowell, who came from England, and was one of the original grantees of Salisbury, Mass., and to whom land was set off in 1639. Samuel Rowell, son of John and Elizabeth Rowell, was a soldier in Col. John Stark's regiment prior to the battle of Bunker Hill, and served with that officer through a great part of the Revolution. All the descendants to the present time are traced as closely as possible, and in the one hundred and twenty years since the marriage of Samuel Rowell and Sarah Dustin one hundred and fourteen different names have been represented in the progeny. The author states that he has much material concerning the ancestry of Samuel Rowell, which he may at some future time publish should there be a general desire among the descendants to have it done. This should be done, by all means, and also the English ancestry should be traced as far as possible. The work has been well done, so far as it was attempted to carry it, and it has a good index, is well illustrated, and nicely printed and bound.

Sargent Record. William Sargent of Ipswich, Newbury, Hampton, Salisbury, and Amesbury, New England, U. S., with his Descendants and their Inter-marriages, and other Sargent branches. Compiled by Edwin Everett Sargent, St. Johnsbury, Vt. St. Johnsbury, Vermont: The Caledonian Company. 1899. 8vo. cloth pp. 331. Price, $2.20, postpaid.

This book gives the lineage of more than five thousand Sargents, and is, we think, the only attempt to give the complete records of this important branch of the Sargent family. The book commences with the history of the name of Sargent and its heraldry and an historical sketch of the ancestors of the family in the United States; and also several pages are devoted to the life of William Sargent, and his will is given in full. It is nicely printed, and contains many half-tone portraits of members of the family. Everybody bearing the name of Sargent should own a copy of this book to keep for himself and his family. The author of the book died while it was passing through the press—literally sacrificing his life in the work—and the publishers, deeming the work too valuable to abandon—kept right on until the book was completed, and are now acting as distributing agents. They deserve great credit for the mechanical execution of the book. The contents of the book are rendered perfectly accessible by a good index.

Stephen Gates of Hingham and Lancaster, Massachusetts and his Descendants. A Preliminary Work subject to Addition and Correction. New York: Willis McDonald & Co., publishers, 1898. 8vo. cloth, pp. 370.

The above named book was compiled by Charles Otis Gates, of 45 Plaza St., Brooklyn, New York, and the work is so well done that we can see no reason why he should withhold his name from its title page. A few pages are devoted to the family in England and the remainder of the book contains all that could be learned concerning the name and family of Gates in America. The book is well arranged, is nicely illustrated, is finely printed and bound, has a good index, and every member of this widely-scattered family should have access to it, either in his own possession or in some public library.

John Rogers of Marshfield and Some of his Descendants. By Joshua R. Drummond. Published by Rhoda B. Ellis, West Hanover, Mass. Portland, Maine. Smith & Sale, Printers 1898 8vo. cloth, pp. iv, 194.

The above title well represents the character of the book, which grew out of materials gathered by Mr. Drummond in the preparation of an article of "John Rogers Families of Plymouth and Vicinity," to which were added materials collected by Miss Rhoda B. Ellis. These materials have been well arranged and the book is well indexed, with both Rogers and other names. It is to be hoped that the English origin of the above named John Rogers may at some future time be established, as well as the relationship of this with other Rogers families in America.

Early Connecticut Marriages as found on Ancient Church Records prior to 1800. By Frederic W. Bailey, Member American Hist. Ass., Conn. Hist. So., New Haven Colony Hist. So., New York Gen. and Biog. So., Sons of the American Revolution (Mass.), Manager Bureau of American Ancestry. Published by the Bureau of American Ancestry. P. O. Box 587, New Haven, Conn. First, Second and Third Books. 8vo. cloth, pp. vi, 116+x; vi, 138+vi; vi, 184. Price, $1.50 each

These three volumes contain transcripts of the marriage records of Congregational churches in forty-two towns in Connecticut. The records date from the first organization of the various churches and continue down to 1800. The Congregational churches were the first ones established, and were for many years about the only churches in existence in those communities; hence their records were most valuable—being the only records kept for many years. One more volume will complete these records of the State of Connecticut. They contain a fund of information for the genealogist, and every library which makes any profession of catering to the taste of that class of patrons should procure the whole set. The books are thoroughly indexed.

Early Massachusetts Marriages prior to 1800. As found in the Official Records of Worcester County. First Book. Edited by Frederick W. Bailey, Ed. "Early Conn. Marriages," etc., etc. Published by the Bureau of American Ancestry, P. O. Box 587, New Haven Conn. 8vo. cloth, pp. vi+183. $2.00

Soon after the first settlement of Massachusetts laws were enacted for the recording of marriages, births and deaths by town clerks, and in 1716, every town clerk was ordered to give a list of marriages to the Clerk of the Sessions of Peace annually in April, and every clerk of the court was to record the same. This book is a transcript of the marriage records contained in the first of two old books containing the same in the office of the Worcester County Clerk. The records of the other book have been copied, and it is to be hoped that the publishers of this volume will receive sufficient encouragement to enable them to publish it in the same elegant style.

Some Pennsylvania Women during the war of the Revolution. By William Henry Egle, M. D. Harrisburg, Pa.: Harrisburg Publishing Company 1898. 8vo. cloth. p. 208.

This elegant volume gives short biographical sketches of many noble and patriotic women of Pennsylvania who participated with their noble fathers, brothers and husbands in the great struggle for American independence, and it also sketches the lives of their respective husbands. The work is done in the thorough, conscientious manner which characterizes all work done by Dr. Egle. All dates are given accurately, and we note particularly the birth of Gen. Arthur St. Clair, which biographers have heretofore given incorrectly. We consider this a very valuable addition to Revolutionary biography, and it is also of great value to the genealogist.

The Making of the Union. Contribution of the College of William and Mary. Richmond, Va.: Whitlet and Shepperson, General Printers. 1899. 8vo. paper, pp. 36.

This pamphlet was prepared by Lyon G. Tyler, M. A., LL. D., President of William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Virginia. It gives the names of all natives of Virginia who contributed to the making and development of the American Union, by service as officers, both national and state, and shows, also, where they were educated—a large share of whom were either students at or graduates of William and Mary. It contains many illustrations, such as portraits of noted individuals who have been identified with the institution, views of buildings, etc. The project of the college was agitated as early as 1617, and it was discussed in the Virginia Assembly in 1619, but was temporarily abandoned on account of the Indian massacre. It was finally established in 1693, being the next after Harvard in actual operation. It was the only college that received its coat-of-arms from the College of Heralds in London, which bears date 1694, and is represented on the seal of the college. This little work is a most valuable contribution to historical and genealogical literature.

*Register of Officers and Members of the Society of Colonial Wars in the state of New Hampshire, Incorporated September 28, 1894. Chartered November 12, 1894. Constitution and By-Laws, Address, Officers, List of Members, etc. Published by the Society. 1897-98. 8vo. cloth, pp. 51.

Books of this class are of great use to the genealogist, and the societies which issue them are our most valuable helpmates; for no one can join them unless he produces satisfactory proof of eligibility by reason of service of an ancestor or ancestors in the war which the society represents, and thus the societies accumulate vast amounts of material relating to persons and events, much of which is printed in their publications. The book is elegantly printed and bound, and is a credit to the society issuing it.

Princes. Records of our Ancestors: Containing a complete List of all Persons by the name of Prince, who served in the Lexington Alarm, April, 1775. Revolutionary War, War of 1812, and Civil War, 1861-65. Also giving rank of each, length of service, time of discharge, regiment and company; under whom they served, age, residence at time of enlistment, with much other valuable information. Edited and Published by Frank A. Prince, Danielson, Conn. Franklin, Mass.: Press of the Sentinel Publishing Co. 1898. 8vo. cloth, pp. 88. Price, $2.00.

This book is most admirably arranged and all the records are authentic—being derived from most reliable sources. It will undoubtedly, be of great interest to those of the name and family of Prince, wherever they may be located, and it should be found in every large public library.

Official Report of the Third American Tyler Family Reunion held at Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., Wednesday, September 7, 1898 By W. I. Tyler Bringham, Esq. Member New England Historic Genealogical Society, Southern History Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, Gov. Thomas Dudley Family Association, Tyler Family Historian, etc., etc. Chicago, Ill., 1898. 8vo. paper, pp. vj+42. Edition limited. Price, 50 cents.

This pamphlet contains, besides the report of the third reunion of the Tyler family, many very interesting notes relating to persons bearing that name, many of whom have a world-wide reputation. It should be of great interest to all bearing the name of Tyler, and to many others. The author is preparing an extensive genealogy of the Tyler family, and the present work gives assurance that the work will be well done.

names of teachers, members of committees, and of many families represented among the scholars of the schools from that time down to the separation of the town into other towns in 1792. Such a collection of names is of great value to the genealogist.

This small leaflet is very convenient for reference. It furnishes much desirable information in a small compass. Readers of THE QUARTERLY can obtain it by sending a stamp to the publishers to pay postage.

D., for his unselfish devotion to the work of the Society, was elected a Life Member.

On motion, the Publication Committee was authorized to procure a form of Certificate of Membership in the various classes of the Society.

It was moved that a committee be appointed by the chair to draw up suitable resolutions on the death of Mrs. Marion A. Buckingham, to report at the next stated meeting. Also, that the Historian be instructed to prepare a biographical sketch of Mrs. Buckingham, to be published in THE QUARTERLY. The chair appointed Mr. Whayman and Dr. Herrick and authorized them to ask President Taylor to serve on that committee.

It was moved that a vote of thanks be given to Mrs. Rath-Merrill for her generous donation of books to the Society.

On motion of Mr. Pengelly the thanks of the Society were given the Publication Committee for their services in publishing the April number of THE QUARTERLY, and the plan of the same was approved.

It was moved that Rev. Dr. Rexford be invited to address the Society at its next stated meeting.

On motion, the meeting was adjourned to the last Thursday in April, at 620 East Long Street., Columbus, Ohio.

April 27. Adjourned meeting of the Society. The Society met at No. 620 East Long Street, Columbus, Ohio, the following members being present: Dr. A. A. E. Taylor, Vice-President Buckingham, Messrs Whayman, Colton, Jennings, Gorman, Allen, Cole, Pengelly, D. H. Gard, Dr. Herrick, Mrs. Rath-Merrill, Misses Tilton and Herrick.

President Taylor occupied the chair.

The committee appointed to secure suitable quarters for the library reported as follows:

“April 26, 1899.

“To the President and Members of The ‘Old Northwest’ Genealogical Society: “The undersigned, a committee appointed to investigate the condition of the library of this Society and to find a suitable place for the same, report as follows:

“The present library quarters are entirely inadequate, both as regards shelf-room, and as to reading room. Many books, pamphlets and periodicals, the property of the Society, have not been placed in the library, owing to lack of room for the same. The library is for this reason less useful to members of the Society, and others who may desire to use it for reference.

“Wherefore, this committee, having examined carefully various plans and places, suggested as a home for the Society, and having found no place so suitable, all things being considered, as the one story, brick structure, with metal roof, known as No. 620 East Long St., and situated near the corner of Long St. and Jefferson Ave., respectfully urge upon this Society, the immediate necessity of securing said room as a permanent home for the library.

“The committee would further recommend that all the books, pamphlets, periodicals, papers, and printed matter of whatever kind, which are the property of the Society, be carefully catalogued and placed in this room, so as to be accessible to all members of the Society; further that a list of the unsold numbers of THE QUARTERLY be prepared, and made known to the members, to the end that they may be informed of the value of the publications on hand.

“Respectfully submitted,

“(Signed) W. R. COLTON

“(Signed) W. G. PENGELLY.”

Mr. Whayman, as agent of the Gorman heirs, the owners, of the above named building, stated that the Society could have a lease of said building for three years on the following terms: The first three months, free; the first year, $15.00 per month; the second year, $17.50, and thereafter at $20.00 per month; and that the Society could have the privilege of subletting the premises as it might think proper.

Motion was then made that the Executive Committee be authorized to make a contract with the agent of the Gorman estate for the use of the room for one year; which motion was lost.

Motion was then made and carried that the Executive Committee be authorized to make a contract for a lease of three years.

Mr. Whayman of the Publication Committee, reported that the Committee was not ready to report in regard to forms for Certificates of Membership, and asked for further time; which—there being no objection—was granted.

Motion was made and carried that the chair appoint a committee of three to make arrangements for shelving and cataloguing the library. Messrs. Colton, Cole and Dr. Herrick were appointed.

On motion, Mr. Pengelly was appointed a committee to return the thanks of this Society to the Y. M. C. A. of Columbus, Ohio, for their favors in the past, and to agree upon compensation for the use of their rooms for meetings.

Mr. Whayman, of the Publication Committee recommended that some one be appointed to solicit funds to defray expenses of publishing THE QUARTERLY. The chair decided that the Publication Committee had power to solicit funds—hence no other committee was necessary.

Mr. Allen nominated Hon. Horace Ladd Moore, of Lawrence, as Honorary Vice-President for Kansas, and he was duly elected.

On motion the Society adjourned.

June 9. Stated meeting. The Society met at Dr. Woodruff's office, 255 West Fifth Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

The following members were present: Dr. Orton, Prof. Derby, Rev. Dr. E. L. Rexford, Dr. Woodruff, Messrs. Whayman, Cole, Colton, Pengelly, Gorman, Mrs. Rath-Merrill, Misses Scott, Tilton and Herrick and Dr. Herrick. Miss Anna Scott was a visitor. Dr. Orton was called to the chair.

The minutes were read and corrected.

The following named persons were duly recommended by the Executive Committee for membership, and on motion the Secretary was directed to cast the ballot of the Society for their election: Resident members—Edmund Cone Carr, M. D., Coshocton, Ohio; Hon. Moses Moorhead Granger, Zanesville, Ohio. Associate member—Henry Stoddard Ruggles, Wakefield, Mass.

The committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Mrs. Buckingham, through Mr. Whayman, asked for further time, which was granted.

Mr. Cole, of the Executive Committee reported that he had conferred with Pres. Taylor in regard to leasing the room at 620 East Long St., Columbus, O., for the headquarters of the Society, and Dr. Taylor informed him that he would sign a lease, on behalf of the Society, as soon as one might be presented; and as that had not been done yet the matter had not been attended to.

It was then moved that the matter be postponed, which motion prevailed.

Dr. Woodruff then offered his office rooms, at 255 West Fifth Ave., Columbus, Ohio, for the use of the Society free of charge.

Mr. Whayman moved that the offer of Dr. Woodruff be accepted for the term ending just before the next stated meeting; which motion was carried.

Mr. Whayman reported that no form of Certificate of Membership in the Society had yet been selected, and asked for further time; which, there being no objection, was granted.

Mr. Colton, for the committee to arrange for shelving and cataloguing the library, reported that no action had been taken because no place had been secured for receiving the books. On motion the committee was continued.

Mr. Pengelly, as committee to confer with the Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in regard to the use of their rooms for meetings of the Society reported that he had not yet seen Mr. Perkins. The committee was continued.

On motion, the thanks of the Society were given to Dr. Woodruff for his kindness and courtesy in tendering the use of his rooms.

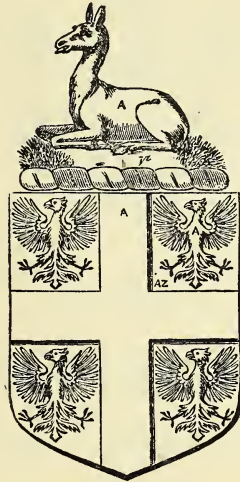

On motion the Society then adjourned.

TABLE OF THE ANNUAL ASSAY OFFICE LETTERS USED IN THE MARKING OF PLATE, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE PRESENT TIME.

By the late OCTAVIUS MORGAN.

The publication of an illustration of the Gordon Mug (facing page 51), having raised a question as to the date and place of its manufacture, a table of Hall marks, London, is here given, as being conclusive evidence that the mug was not made in London, but probably in Dublin.

Those letters only are here given which have actually been found on pieces of plate or copied from the books of the Goldsmiths Company of London, the blanks being left to be supplied as future examples may occur.

The tables given are authoritative reference, and genealogists and others wishing to establish the age, etc. of old English silver articles will find them invaluable.

EDITORIAL.

WE, THE PUBLICATION COMMITTEE of The "Old Northwest" Genealogical Society for the year 1899, having with this present issue of THE QUARTERLY completed our labors, felicitate ourselves upon the results obtained.

We have gathered and published much matter of permanent value. The alphabetic transcripts of the "Visitations," although far from completed, have already proven of use, as shown by appreciative letters received by various members of the committee. We would advise that the remainder of the "Visitations" be transcribed and published, to the end that every member of this Society may have the complete list.

Church and Court Records and Monumental Inscriptions, being among the matter which the professional genealogist admits as "evidence," should by all means be preserved and published. The necessity of immediate action in the direction of preserving these records is shown by the fact that, in at least two instances, the cemeteries from which the inscriptions were transcribed have since been destroyed.

The department of Notes and Queries has proven singularly successful, missing information having been supplied from Germany, England and other foreign countries, as well as from nearly every state in the Union. In more than one instance complete genealogies have been unearthed in response to queries in this department.

The publication of notes concerning the Mayflower and Revolutionary ancestry of one family has brought many inquiries from members of allied families.

There can be no doubt as to our success, both in publishing, and also in showing the value of, such records as have appeared in THE QUARTERLY.

The fact that some sources of such information have already been destroyed only serves to emphasize the necessity of gathering such material before it is too late. It is a matter of serious concern that many records have in the past been suffered to perish through neglect. It is little less than a crime, if we, having our attention directed toward this matter, should now fail in our duty.

It is a sad fact, however, that with the exception of less than twelve, the members of this Society have utterly failed of their duties in this regard. Not only have they failed to present matter that has come in their way, but in many instances have failed to pay their just dues.

They have reaped the benefits of the labors of a few, who have toiled without hope of reward. Further, depending on pledges and subscriptions of members, and their promises to pay, we, as a committee, acting in the interests of the Society, and under its orders, have contracted debts for the publication of THE QUARTERLY, which, as the members have so far failed to pay up, the committee has been obliged to settle.

If the members of the Society would meet their legal obligations, there would be a surplus in the treasury sufficient for the needs of the next year's publications.

HORACE W. WHAYMAN, Chairman,
WALTER R. COLTON,
MAY MERMOD SCOTT.

WITH this number THE QUARTERLY completes the second year of its existence, and it now occupies a position in the front rank of periodicals of its class. It has demonstrated that there is an ample field for such a magazine in the Old Northwest by placing before its readers a few selections from its early records, monumental inscriptions, etc. But this matter has been fully set forth by the Publication Committee, to whose article we would call the readers' attention.

THE impression seems to be held by many that our efforts are confined to the state of Ohio, while others give us still more contracted limits and insist that THE QUARTERLY is simply a Columbus institution. This is a great mistake. We do not try to circumscribe our limits to any particular state, or even to any particular group of states; though we have thus far, for obvious reasons, paid more particular attention to matters pertaining to the region near at hand. Not having the opportunity to reach out for matter from more remote parts, we have been obliged to take whatever we could find within our reach. But we wish to impress upon our readers that we desire material which is of use to the genealogist from all parts of the country, whether contiguous or remote, for American families are very much given to scattering and their members are to be found in all parts of the country; thus, in order to be of use, we must bring ourselves in touch with every section of the country. Therefore we will say to all, the pages of THE QUARTERLY will ever be open to you, no matter where your abiding place may be.

AS THE Publication Committee desires to issue the present number of THE QUARTERLY as early as possible, they have concluded to send it to members without the index to the volume. The work of compiling the index has been pushed along as circumstances have permitted, but necessarily it cannot be completed until the matter is all properly placed in pages. After the work of compilation is completed, the matter must be put in type and printed, and it will probably take until the fifteenth or twentieth of this month to complete it. Each member and subscriber will be supplied with the index as soon as possible. Those desiring their numbers for the present year bound in either of the uniform styles adopted by the Society last year are referred to the first advertising page, at the end of this number.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

NOTES.

CHASE—CHACE.—We are pleased to note the incorporation of the Chase Chace Family Association in Hartford, Conn., on July 6, 1899. The following are the officers: John C. Chase, of Derry, N. H., President; Omar P. Chase, Andover, Mass., Secretary and Treasurer; Mrs. Mary L. C. Smith, of Hartford, Conn., and Rev. William A. Eardeley-Thomas, of Henderson, Maine, Historians; George Bigelow Chase, Boston, Mass., Edward Olcott Chase, Chicago, Ill., George W. Chase, Pawling, N. Y., Charles E. Chase, Worcester, Mass., George W. Chase, Washington, D. C., Vice-Presidents; George L. Chase, Hartford, Conn., Judge Russell S. Taft, Burlington, Vt., George F. Chase, Taunton, Mass., Joseph E. Chase, Holyoke, Mass., Henry M. Chase, Barnstable, Mass., Executive Committee.

HERRICK GENEALOGY.—As the writer has received quite a number of requests from authors of genealogies for the Herrick Genealogy in exchange for their own works, he takes this means of informing all such that the book is entirely out of print now and he is, therefore, unable to comply with such requests.

Dr. LUCIUS C. HERRICK.

Columbus, Ohio,

JENNINGS.—Mr. W. H. Jennings, of Washington avenue, Columbus, has almost ready to issue from the press, an exhaustive history of the Jennings family. As the compiler has spent some twenty years in gathering together its contents, persons interested in the family should at least help in its production by subscribing.

SUTTON COLDFIELD.—The above cut represents the seal of the town of Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire, England, the reputed birthplace of "Quartermaster" George Colton. Vide THE QUARTERLY, Vol. I., page 180.

PHELPS—GRISWOLD—MOORE—MEACHAM.—The sixth annual reunion of the Phelps-Griswold-Moore-Meacham families was held at Minerva Park, according to custom, on the fourth Thursday of August. These four families were the first settlers in Blendon township, Franklin county, O., coming in 1806 and 1807. About 125 persons were present and following the noonday feast, the regular business of the association was transacted. Deeming a closer association advisable, the board of directors had prepared a constitution which was submitted to the members and after some discussion was adopted. The officers for the past year were: H. Warren Phelps, president; Mrs. Louisa Phelps, secretary; William Phelps, Wallace H. Moore, and Virgil D. Allen, board of directors. Under the new constitution were elected: President, Wm. H. Phelps; Vice-President, H. Warren Phelps; Secretary and Treasurer, Louisa M. Phelps; Historian, Virgil D. Allen. Board of Directors, Wallace H. Moore, Clayton L. Dickey and Alfred Meacham. Address all communications to the secretary at Westerville, O.

KNELLER.

KNELL—KNELLER FAMILIES.—Gottfried Kniller (Kneller), painter, born at Lubeck in North Germany on 8th August 1646, was the third son of Zacharias Kneller and Lucia Bueten his wife. Zacharias Kneller was born at Eisleben in Thuringia on 16 November 1611, was the son of a Landed proprietor at Halle in Saxony, who was surveyor general and inspector of revenues for the mines belonging to the Count Manofelot. He left Eisleben possibly through the protracted wars, and settled at Lubeck, where he practiced as a portrait painter, and from 1659 was master of the works to the Church of St. Catherine.

He married at Lubeck 31 October 1639, and was the father of three sons, viz: Johan born 15 December 1642, Johan Zacharias born 6 October 1644, died in London 1702 and buried in St. Paul's Covent Garden, Andrus born 23 August 1649, organist to St. Peter's Church at Hamburg. Gottfried was destined for a military life, and was sent to Lyken to study mathematics and fortifications. He however developed a love of painting, so that his father removed him to Amsterdam, where he became a pupil of Ferdinand Bol. In 1676 he went to England and soon established himself under the patronage of Charles II. Kneller received further marks of favor from King William, and was knighted at Kensington 3 March 1691, when the above arms were granted him. He amassed great wealth and died 19 October 1723 and was buried in his garden at Whitton. He married Susannah, daughter of the Rev. John Cawley. She died in 1729 and was buried with her husband, leaving no issue. He had however, an illegitimate daughter Agnes, who married a Mr. Huckle and had a son Godfrey Kneller Huckle. The son was Sir Godfrey's ultimate heir and assumed his name. Vide Heinikin's Nachouhton von Künstlern aus Kuntsachen. Leipzig 1768.

MORRISON (Vol. II, p. 120.)—Dr. Morrison (John) came to Columbus in 1855 or '56, from Oxford, Ohio, where I think he resided for many years. He was Scotch, or of Scotch descent, and was a man of culture and decided character. He was a Covenanter, and was instrumental in the founding of the only Covenanters' church, so far as I know, ever established here. The church, a wooden building, is now a boarding house and stands on South Sixth street, between State and Town streets. Dr. M. was well qualified in his profession and a very successful practitioner, but somewhat pedantic withal. He uniformly dressed in the old style—white cravat, high collar, buff or white vest, a blue cutaway broadcloth coat, light and tight pantaloons, and a big bunch of seals. He left Columbus in 1861 or '62, I think, to return to Oxford, but my memory is not quite accurate in regard to his intentions. As he was at least 50 years of age when he came here, it is hardly probable that he is yet living.

GENEALOGIES IN PREPARATION.

Persons of the several names are advised to furnish the compilers of these genealogies with records of their own families and other information which they think will be useful. We would suggest that all facts of interest illustrating family history or character be communicated, especially service of any of the wars of our country (which may be of material benefit to those who desire to establish their eligibility for membership in the various patriotic societies) other service under the U. S. government, the holding of other offices, graduation from colleges or professional schools, occupations, with places and dates of birth, marriage, residence and death. When there are more than one Christian name they should all be given in full if possible. No initial should be used when the full names are known.

Field.—Mr. Fred. C. Pierce, P. O. Box 244, Chicago, Ill., is compiling a history and genealogy of the Field family of America, especially those of the name whose ancestors were in this country prior to 1700. This family is one of the oldest in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Houghton.—Dr. J. W. Houghton, of Wellington, Ohio, is collecting material for a genealogy of the Houghton family.

Sleeper.—Mr. F. A. Sleeper, of Corry, Pa., is collecting material for a genealogy of the Sleeper family.

Holmes—Perry—Fountain and Fontaine—Chase.—Rev. William A. Eardeley-Thomas, of Henderson, Piscataquis Co., Maine, is preparing genealogies of the following families: 1. Francis Holmes of Stamford, Conn., and John Holmes of Bedford, Westchester Co., N. Y., and their descendants; 2. Edward and Ezra Perry of Sandwich, Mass., and their descendants; 3. All Fountain and Fontaine families; 4. The families of William Chase of Yarmouth, Mass., 1639; Thomas Chase of Hampton, N. H., 1640; John Chase of Providence, R. I., 1720; the Chase family of Baltimore, Md., 1720, and he is working conjointly with Mrs. Mary L. C. Smith of Hartford, Conn., on the Aquila Chase line.

Angell.—Preston & Rounds Co., of Providence, propose to publish, if sufficient subscriptions are secured to insure the cost, The Diary of Col. Israel Angell, of the Rhode Island Continental Line, with Annotations by Edward Field, explanatory of the text, and giving the Military History of the persons mentioned. It will make a valuable book for reference for the services of officers and men in the various Continental regiments, and will contain much information of great value to the genealogist. The price will be $2.00 post paid.

History of Randolph County, West Virginia.—Mr. Hu Maxwell, of Parsons, W. Va., is preparing a history of the above county, from its earliest settlement to the present time. It will embrace records of all the leading families, and will contain much other information of great value to the geologist. Price, in cloth binding, $4.00; in leather, $5.00. Family histories will be inserted free, whether any member subscribes for the book or not.

BOOK NOTICES.

[It is suggested that persons sending books for notice state, for the information of readers, the price of each book, with the amount to be added for postage, or charges, when sent by mail or express.]

Genealogy of the Crane Family. Volume I. Descendants of Henry Crane, of Wethersfield and Guilford, Conn., with Sketch of the Family in England. By Ellery Bicknell Crane. Worcester, Mass. Press of Charles Hamilton. 311 Main Street. 1895. 8vo. cloth, pp. xv—201.

The first article of this book treats of the Crane Family Armorial, of which there have been five different ones born by the Cranes in England; the second gives the origin of the name; the third is devoted to the family in England, which comprises 27 pages; the fourth relates to the first of the name in New England, of whom there were several settled in different localities, but as yet none of them appear to have been definitely identified with any of the English families, though it is pretty certain they all came from there; and the next, which comprises the greater part of the volume, takes up Henry Crane, born about 1635, who with his brother Benjamin was in Wethersfield, Conn., as early as 1655, and was a farmer and a tanner and carrier of leather. His descent is traced out for eight generations in a quite exhaustive manner. An addenda contains a list of Cranes who served as civil officers in Connecticut, from Colonial times down to the present, and a roll of honor gives the names of Cranes who served in the Colonial, Revolutionary, War of 1812 and the Rebellion. The book has a full index of Cranes and also one of other names. This book is nicely arranged, upon a modification of the register plan, is finely printed and well illustrated with portraits, and the frontispiece is a Coat-of-Arms of the Cranes of Suffolk county, England, in colors. The second volume of this work is now in active preparation, and will contain the records of the other American families of the name. No one should be satisfied with anything less than the complete work; therefore all who had the first volume should have the second.

The Historic Genealogy of the Lowells in America from 1639 to 1899.

Compiled and Edited by Delmar R. Lowell, A. B., A. M., D. D., Post Chaplain U. S. Army, Retired; Post Chaplain-in-Chief G. A. R.; Ex-Aide-de-Camp on Staff of Commander-in-Chief G. A. R.; First Registrar Utah Society Sons American Revolution; Corresponding Member Oneida, N. Y., Historical Society; Member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society of Boston, Mass., etc., etc. With Illustrations. Published by the Author. The Tuttle Company, Printers, Rutland, Vt. 8vo. cloth, pp. lii + 826. Price, $8.50 prepaid.

This book contains nearly 900 pages, quite compactly printed in clear and beautiful type, and has 76 illustrations, and a Coat of Arms in heraldic colors. The common ancestor of the Lowells of America was Percival Lowell (Lowle), who came to Newbury, Mass., from Bristol, England, in 1639, in the ship "Jonathan." The first part of the book contains an account of the family (with pedigrees) in England, from the earliest records which could be obtained—early in the thirteenth century—and brought down to the time of the emigration of Percival to America. The second part makes a full showing of the descendants of Percival Lowell for twelve generations. At the end of the list a number of families are given who could not be identified with the main line. There is also a full list of Lowells who served in the Revolution and the Civil war, which are matters of prime importance in a genealogy. An appendix contains copies of wills and other matters of interest, and is followed by a number of pages of errata and addenda. The book has a complete index of Lowell names and one of other names. This book is simply invaluable to all of the name and family, and it should have a place in every library which devotes space to genealogy. Its arrangement is perfect and the illustrations—except the Coat-of-Arms—are all first-class half-tones. As but a limited edition has been printed, all desiring the book should make early application.

The Genealogy of the Prince Family. From 1660 to 1899. Compiled, Arranged and Published by Frank A. Prince, Danielson, Conn. J. H. Briggs, Printer, Danielson, Conn. 1899. 8vo. cloth, pp. 153.

The title of this book seems to be somewhat misleading, for we find upon examination that it is by no means anything like a complete genealogy of the Princes in America. The author, on page 128, makes the same admission himself and also on the same and the preceding page gives the names of a number of persons who have made and are still making collections of genealogical material relating to the name of Prince. This book contains in its first part, the matter which appeared in the pamphlet noticed on page 42 of the January issue of THE QUARTERLY, entitled "Descendants of Daniel Prince," and inserted at the end of the book is the little book entitled "Records of Our Ancestors" (being military records of those of the name who served in the various wars of this country, from the Revolution to the Civil war, noticed on page 124 of the THE QUARTERLY for July), which was bound with the genealogy for the convenience of those who may desire to preserve such records in a convenient form. The book so far as it goes is very valuable, and we would suggest that the different persons who have collected material relating to the different lines or families of Princes try to get together and form a sort of association, or joint stock company, pool their material and make a colossal genealogy of the Princes in America. We would also suggest that they gather as much of the transatlantic history of the family as possible. There are a goodly number of illustrations, consisting of portraits and views of residences (one of which faces this page), and the book has a good index.

Addenda. Naff-Neff History Regarding the Origin and Meaning of the Name Neff. Together With the Revolutionary Records of Captain Rudolph Neff Ensign Aaron Neff Major Thomas Smith, Jr. By Elizabeth Clifford Neff, Genealogist, Compiler of the Naff-Neff History. Published and for sale by the Author, Cleveland, Ohio 1899 12mo. paper, pp. 35.

This elegant pamphlet will prove of great interest to the Neff family, and will be of great utility to those who are descended from the Revolutionary ancestors treated of, and more especially to those desire to prove their eligibility for membership in any of the various patriotic societies of the Revolution. The author has done her work most thoroughly and the printer has done his work elegantly.

Recollections of Olden Times: Rowland Robinson of Narragansett and his Unfortunate Daughter. With Genealogies of the Robinson and Hazard Families of Rhode Island. By Thomas R. Hazard, "Shepherd Tom," in his Eighty-first and Eighty-second years. Also Genealogical Sketch of the Hazards of the Middle States. By Willis P. Hazard, of Westchester, Pa. Newport, R. I.: Published by John P. Sanborn. 1879. 8vo. cloth, pp. 264. $3.00,

It is stated in the preface that the narrative and genealogies first appeared, simultaneously, in the "Newport Mercury" and the "Narragansett Times," in the latter part of the year 1877 and early part of 1878. Their perusal having excited some interest among the public, it was thought advisable that the papers should be embodied in book form. The narrative takes up the first 145 pages of the book, and contains many matters of interest relating to the early history of Rhode Island, and the remainder of the book is devoted to the genealogies of the Robinson and Hazard families. The Robinson and Hazard families were connected by intermarriages; which accounts for the genealogies of both families being given in this book. Though 119 pages are devoted to the genealogies of these two families, there is no index of names. There is much matter contained in the book which is of general interest to the genealogist, but the only way it can be obtained is by patiently and carefully wading through it—unless the searcher be gifted with a special sense which will guide him directly to the desired items; but unfortunately, very few are thus favored. As twenty years have elapsed since the publication of the book, it is to be hoped these genealogies may be elaborated and brought down to date.

Simsbury Connecticut Births Marriages and Deaths Transcribed from the Town Records And published by Albert C. Bates Librarian Connecticut Historical Society Hartford 1898 8vo. cloth, pp. 345.

Among the books of prime importance to the genealogist are those containing records of births, marriages and deaths, and this book must prove of special interest in the Old Northwest as many of the early settlers came from the town of Simsbury, Conn., and their families are represented in it. The records are given verbatim—the original spelling being adhered to in the body of the work, while in the index the modern spelling is used. There is a complete index of persons and of all places except Simsbury. The book is most elegantly printed by The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co., Hartford, Conn., on the best linen paper, and the edition limited to 150—this being No. 66.

Early Connecticut Marriages as found on Ancient Church Records Prior to 1800. Fourth Book. Edited by Frederick W. Bailey, Official Copyist Parochial Archives, Diocese of Connecticut; Editor "Early Massachusetts Marriages," etc., etc. Published by the Bureau of American Ancestry, P. O. Box 587, New Haven, Conn. Price, $1.50.

The three first volumes of this series were noticed on page 123 of THE QUARTERLY for July. This (the fourth) volume contains records of eleven of the original towns of Connecticut, from which seven other towns have been set off. In these books many persons now living in the region of the Old Northwest, and in still more remote sections of our vast country, can find the date of marriage of their Connecticut ancestors—of which otherwise they might forever remain in profound ignorance. This book is brought out in the same elegant style of the preceding ones, and with them should be accessible to every genealogist, either as his own personal property, or in a public library within reasonable distance.

Snyder County Marriages, 1835-1899. Miscellaneous Marriages, 1868-'98. Rev. Casper's Marriage Record, 1839-'82. Rev. Shindel's Marriage Record, 1835-'88. Rev. C. S. Erlenmeyer's Marriage Record, 1840-'75. With Index of Surnames. Compiled by Geo. W. Wagenseller, A. M., Middleburgh, Pa. Middleburgh, Penna.: Wagenseller Publishing Co. 1899. 8vo. cloth, pp. 266.

It will be noticed that these records go no farther back than 1835, and in his preface the compiler says that no authentic lists of earlier marriages in that county can now be obtained, which is a fact greatly to be lamented. It is indeed fortunate that these records have been rescued from oblivion by publishing them in this book, as they might have shared the fate of the earlier records had the matter been postponed to a later date. The book contains from 7000 to 7500 marriages or a total of 15,000 names. These are all indexed in a list of surnames. The compiler states that he knows of no other county in Pennsylvania that has published such a record, and now it is to be hoped that others will bestir themselves immediately and rescue their ancient records from the destroying tooth of time. This work has been done well, and will not probably be done over again, and as the edition is limited those desiring the book should make early application in order to avoid disappointment. Mr. Wagenseller is also compiling a complete list of tombstone inscriptions of Snyder County, which will be out sometime during the present year.

Foundations of Genealogy with Suggestions on the Art of Preparing Records of Ancestry By William Stowell Mills, LL. B. Monograph Publishing Company, New York, 1869. 12mo. cloth, pp. xii + 270. Price $1.00.

We have been repeatedly asked the question, How shall I go to work to prepare a genealogy? It is, indeed, a hard question to answer satisfactorily in the brief time one may have to spare at the time such question may be propounded, and we have thus been unable heretofore to afford much satisfaction to those who have applied for information. But, thanks to Mr. Mills, we will labor under that difficulty no longer; for henceforth we can put the anxious querist upon the right track at once by advising him to purchase a copy of the above named little book at once and read it carefully, and he will surely be able to make a correct beginning in his work, and will learn what he should look for and where to look for it. The book should have a wide circulation, for it is the only American work of the kind now extant, and its low price should bring it within the reach of all desiring the information it affords.

Revised Roster of Vermont Volunteers and lists of Vermonters who Served in the Army and Navy of the United States during the War of the Rebellion, 1861-1866. Compiled by Authority of the General Assembly under direction of Theodore S. Peck, Adjutant-General. Montpelier, Vt.:

Press of the Watchman Publishing Co., Publishers and Printers. 1892. 4to, half Russia, pp. vii+863.

All official records of military service are of great importance to the genealogist, and this book is exceptionally valuable, as it contains the names and incontrovertible evidence of the service of every soldier and sailor from Vermont who served in the war of the Rebellion. These names amount to many thousands, and there must be very few families in that state that are not represented upon this roll of honor. A full record of service is given of each person, and every name is indexed. The work of compilation is most admirably done, and the mechanical execution of the book is excellent. It is one of the best works of its class we have seen, and its value will increase as the years come and go, and the time lengthens since the enactment of the tragedy participated in by those whose names are therein recorded.

*The life member was elected a resident member and paid $25.00 and became a Life Member.

One of the principal objects of this association, as stated in the first circular issued, was the collection of a library, and I am happy to be able to report that a good beginning has been made in that direction. Major Ward, our respected Historian, has placed in his office at No. 74 East Gay street, this city, a book case and has placed in the same a goodly number of books belonging to himself, for the use of the Society, and the books belonging to the Society have been placed therein, and Messrs. Cole and Pengeley have each made a very liberal donation of books and pamphlets to the Society, which will all be duly acknowledged in the forthcoming issue of the Quarterly. As may be seen in the Book Notices in the Quarterly, a very liberal number of books have been sent us for notice, and these, together with the exchanges with The Quarterly, afford a considerable and constant source of accessions to the library. One thing worthy of mention is, that but few of the books and pamphlets in our collection thus far can be found duplicated in the State Library, and the list of books relating to genealogy in that Library published in the Quarterly will be of great use to all who may desire to avail themselves of all that can be had in the city.

At the regular meeting in June the Constitution was so amended as to provide for the election of associate members in the states in which the Society cannot elect resident members; also Article V. of the By-Laws, substituting the word shall for may, thus making the law mandatory instead of permissive, and we must therefore now elect honorary vice-presidents in each of the following states: California, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota and New York.

As we now have members in all the states of our jurisdiction except Indiana, we should elect a vice-president for Ohio, Illinois and Michigan.

Experience has shown the necessity of a committee whose special duty shall be to supervise the publications of the Society. Everything thus far has devolved upon the Executive Committee, and they—feeling, probably, that they had sufficient other matters to engross their attention have delegated the Secretary to attend to all matters pertaining to the Quarterly—editorial as well as financial—and the Secretary feels that his shoulders are not sufficiently broad and strong to enable him to bear the whole burden; and he thinks it would be more satisfactory to the majority of the members of the Society to have a committee of three or more to look after the making of contracts, as well as to have supervision of the material offered for publication. As the work advances, material is offered more abundantly, and the time is not far distant when a great deal of sifting will have to be exercised—unless the size of the magazine should be greatly augmented—in order to keep it within bounds.

In regard to our prospects for the future, I think we have reason to feel encouraged. Our growth has been healthy and quite steady. Our members are nearly all engaged in actual genealogical work, or else somewhat interested in study or investigation in some of its lines. We have held out no inducements to the class of people whose only motive would be to make it a "fad." We have made it a practice to extend an invitation to join with us in the work to all whose names we have found in our various exchanges in connection with genealogical investigations and in a large number of such instances have received some response, either in the shape of an application for membership or a subscription to the Quarterly. We are receiving a class of members who will be likely to stay with us; hence with a steady influx of new members, we must inevitably gain a sufficient membership in the near future to not only render the Society self-sustaining but to enable it to furnish the means to command the whole time of its working force, and not be obliged to accept the small portion of time which can be spared from the regular avocations which have to be performed to enable him to subsist.

Let each member of the Society make an effort to bring one or more new members into the Society. The object is worthy, and we can all feel that we are now able to render a full equivalent for all the money we receive.

Respectfully submitted,

L. C. HERRICK, Secretary.

Notice!

To the members of The "Old Northwest Genealogical Society and subscribers to THE QUARTERLY:

The October No. completed Vol. I. of THE "OLD NORTHWEST" GENEALOGICAL QUARTERLY, and as many who have received it during the year will, doubtless, desire to preserve it in a form convenient for reference, arrangements have been made for binding the same in substantial and elegant form, either in cloth or half morocco, as may be desired. The seal of the Society will be stamped, in gold, upon the outside of the front cover, and the title, also in gold, upon the back.

The Society voted at its last meeting to sell no more single numbers of THE QUARTERLY, except when wanted to complete sets; but to sell Volume I, put up in paper covers, at $3.00 per copy.

The prices for binding are: Cloth, $1.00; half morocco, $1.50. To those who desire to have the binding done elsewhere, we will furnish the covers at 50 cts. for cloth and $1.00 for half morocco. These styles of binding will be adhered to, so that this and all future volumes of THE QUARTERLY will present a uniform appearance.

Those desiring to have the binding done here should send their numbers of THE QUARTERLY, by mail (with name and address of sender plainly marked on outside of wrapper) to the undersigned, and the bound volumes will be returned, prepaid, either by mail or express, at the above prices, cash in advance.

As many large libraries, and some persons, have the covers and advertising matter bound with the volumes, we will thus accommodate all who may so desire; but in all cases when so desired it should be explicitly specified in the order.

All orders should be sent to

Dr. L. C. HERRICK, Secretary,
1447 Highland St., Columbus, Ohio.

A genealogical dictionary of the county to the year 1800; is being published in the form of arranged genealogies. As Essex County comprises the following cities and towns: Amesbury, Andover, Beverly, Boxford, Bradford, Byfield, Danvers, Essex, Georgetown, Gloucester, Groveland, Hamilton, Haverhill, Ipswich, Lawrence, Lynn, Lynnfield, Manchester, Marblehead, Merrimac, Methuen, Middleton, Nahant, Newbury, Newburyport, North Andover, Peabody, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Saugus, Swampscott, Topsfield, Wenham and West Newbury, all of which were settled previous to 1650, the great value of such a dictionary is at once apparent. The records of old Norfolk County (1643-1679), which included all towns north of the Merrimac river, are also being printed. The Essex Antiquarian

An Illustrated Monthly Magazine devoted to the History, Biography, Genealogy, and Antiquities of Essex County, Massachusetts.

Edited by

SIDNEY PERLEY, ESQ.

A genealogical dictionary of the county to the year 1800, is being published in the form of arranged genealogies. As Essex County comprises the following cities and towns: Amesbury, Andover, Beverly, Boxford, Bradford, Byfield, Danvers, Essex, Georgetown, Gloucester, Groveland, Hamilton, Haverhill, Ipswich, Lawrence, Lynn, Lynnfield, Manchester, Marblehead, Merrimac, Methuen, Middleton, Nahant, Newbury, Newburyport, North Andover, Peabody, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, Salisbury, Saugus, Swampscott, Topsfield, Wenham and West Newbury, all of which were settled previous to 1650, the great value of such a dictionary is at once apparent. The records of old Norfolk County (1643-1679), which included all towns north of the Merrimac river, are also being printed. Early wills, cemetery inscriptions, revolutionary rolls, sketches of customs and early industries, etc., furnish a variety of historical data alike valuable to the genealogist and historian.

Volume III, begins with the January, 1899, issue.
